Foreword

In order that you may have more vivid recollections of the year 1959-60 in Warren High School, the "Dragon" staff has endeavored to preserve for you a record of your student life during this time. Although these realities will never again be recaptured, it is hoped that in the years to come this yearbook will recall to memory the carefree atmosphere, the eagerness, and the zest of the best years of your lives, your high school careers. As you peruse these pages, you will recall more clearly your classes, your teachers, your activities, your friends, and the hopes and dreams envisioned during this year at Warren High School.

If predictions come true and plans materialize, the year 1959-60 will mark the end of over a half century of learning in the Warren High School building at the corner of Market Street and Second Avenue. Your initials inscribed on your favorite desk will soon vanish, and your prized rendezvous will be forgotten.

In saying goodbye to the old building, you are not laying aside the traditions so carefully cultivated through the years. Your new building will represent all that is good in modern architecture and in careful planning. As you leave this building, it is hoped that you will forever cherish the memories of your years spent here and will always exemplify the high ideals learned here.

Dedication

To the members of the Joint Committee of the Warren Area School Board whose interest in promoting the progress of our schools and our community is deeply appreciated, we, the Class of 1960, respectfully dedicate this fifty-third edition of the Warren High School "Dragon."

Accepting the important responsibility given to them by the voters, these public-spirited citizens have devoted their untiring effort and personal attention to the complex problems of their office. They have co-operated with Dr. Carl E. Whipple, Superintendent of Schools, and his assistants in maintaining an effective school system with competent teachers and a modern program. Aware of the needs of the community, the members of the Joint Committee with their foresight have made possible the new high school building on Fifth Street in behalf of the youth of this area. This new building will stand as the materialization of the hopes, the determination, and the courage of the Joint Committee of the Warren Area School Board, who deserve whole-hearted support and appreciation.

Guidance

Guiding You in the Solution of Current Problems and in the Formation of Future Plans.

College representatives helped juniors and seniors to become acquainted with the colleges of their choice. Miss Dorsey of the University of Pittsburgh acquainted the students with admission policies and scholarship opportunities offered by her school.

GUIDANCE

The guidance department, concerned with the welfare of each student, offered a wealth of information and advice to students who desired assistance. This information concerned those who were interested in continuing their education and also those students who were making a decision about their future careers. An ample supply of catalogues of colleges and universities, books concerning careers and occupations, scholarship information, and pamphlets on varied subjects were available to all.

Through the school year representatives from colleges and universities, from the Armed Forces, and from different vocations visited the school to meet and talk with interested students.

Personal aptitude tests, achievement tests, and scholastic records were on file in the guidance department of every individual from the first grade through high school.

As guidance counselors, Miss Steele and Mr. Zulak helped sophomores and juniors to plan curriculums, assisted seniors with college applications, and guided students to select careers and to solve other personal problems.

LANGUAGE

Upper—With her picturesque explanations, Mrs. Coe made English literature live.
Lower—Theme writing could be fun as these college preparatory seniors discovered while they wrote book reports with Mr. Frank's supervision.

English

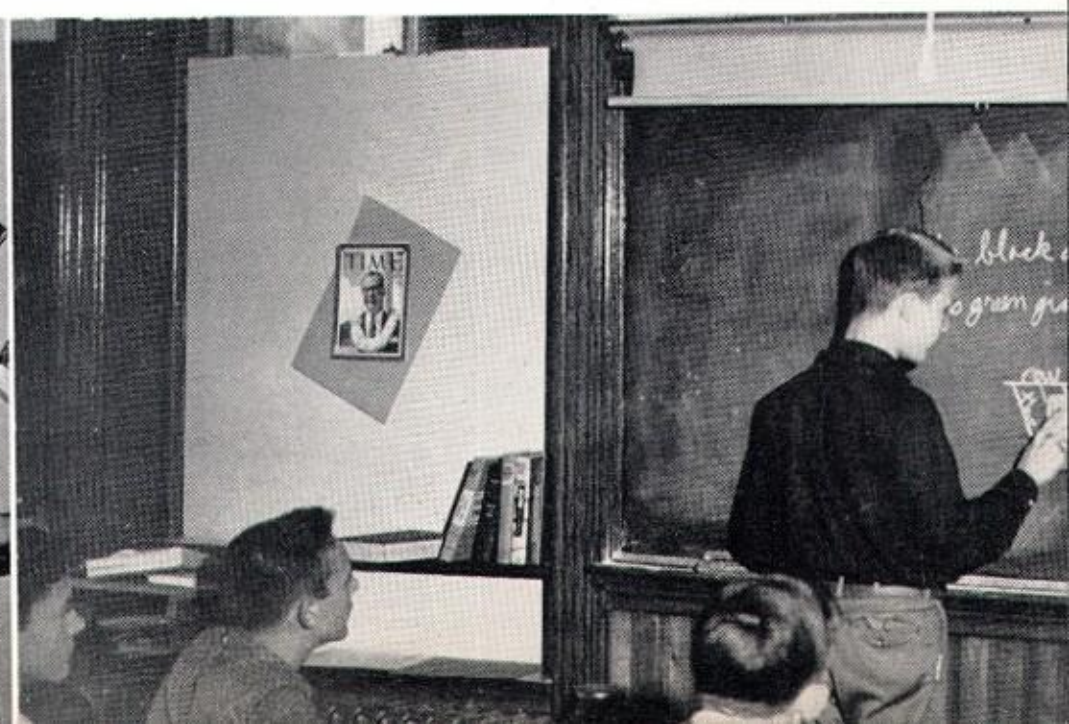
For Your Everyday Needs.

English, an essential subject to everyone, was a requirement for all students. The sophomores continued their study of basic grammar, studied selections of world literature, and had the opportunity of reading Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar."

The junior classes stressed grammar, expanded their vocabulary, and studied selections of American literature with special attention to its accompanying history and its development. Classes for college-preparatory students enabled them to get a somewhat broader view of American literature and to expand their knowledge of expression.

The seniors spent much time on English literature, and they dealt with grammar, composition, and vocabulary. A thorough study of "Macbeth" was a requirement. Classes for college-bound students focused attention on extra reading assignments and further composition.

Left—Mrs. Andersen recommended good literature for juniors and cheerfully provided a wide scope of select books for reading.
Right—Diagramming showed to sophomores a clear picture of the structure of a sentence.



Dramatics and Speech

Your Expression of Written and Spoken Ideas.

Teaching students to express themselves more clearly and easily was a main objective of the speech department. Through pantomimes, speeches, and demonstrations, students acquired ease and polish when they appeared before a group.

Basically, dramatic class aimed to teach its students how to express themselves in speech and movement on the stage. In dramatic readings and monologues students became familiar with good characterization. They also learned the elements necessary for stage production such as make-up, costumes, set design, and lighting. During the year the class endeavored to stage a one-act play in assembly and to make one radio presentation.

Upper—Comprehension and rapidity were the aims of Mrs. Andersen's reading classes.
Lower—Apparently Mr. Papalia and his staff had met the deadline in the great task of preparing and editing the "Dragonette."

Left—Members of the speech class prepared original group pantomimes for the purpose of developing a feeling of ease before an audience.

Right—Rosemarie Dangelo gave a touch of humor to an otherwise serious moment in a pantomime prepared for Mr. Andersen's dramatics class.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Essential in Your Shrinking World.

GERMAN

Concentrating on grammar, first year German students became familiar with the German alphabet and practiced oral conversations. Second year students focused their attention on difficult sentence structure and new idioms. Listening to German records and singing songs auf Deutsch, students also gained a better appreciation of German folk life.

Having lived in Germany, Mr. Kauffman was able to display picturesque scenes of the German countryside and to give authentic descriptions of them.

Mr. Stachowiak supervised the learning of the Latin conjugation, a necessity prior to translation.

LATIN

Students continued their study of Latin, one of the world's oldest existing languages still taught in today's modern schools and one from which much of our language was derived. Translating many episodes in Caesar's "Gallic Wars" and "The Life of Rome," Latin students combined vocabulary learning and grammar studies with the exciting events of Caesar's legions and became familiar with the history of Rome.

SPANISH

Students desiring a better understanding of the fiery Spanish-speaking people enjoyed this course. First-year classes learned the basic forms of grammar and practiced idioms in oral recitation. Students in their second year expanded their appreciation of the language by reading outside material on Spanish history or on famous Spanish people. All classes enjoyed singing Spanish songs, which provided an enjoyable change in classroom routine.

Records revealed the musical tastes of the Spanish-speaking countries. Mr. Wright played "Elegia a Manolete", which portrayed the animation of a bullfight and the death of a famous matador.

Your LIBRARY

With a Variety of Books and Information.

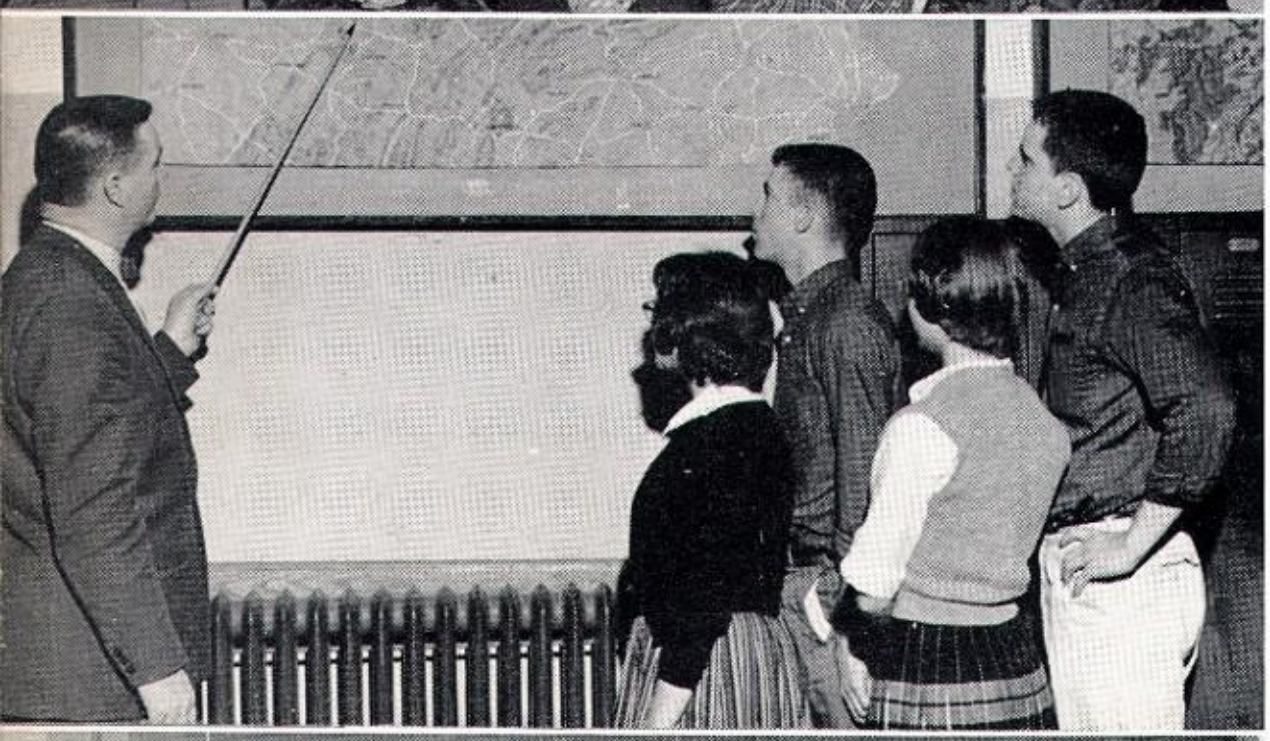
Whether you wanted to peruse the latest book, do research, read the magazines, or just study, Warren High School library offered you the chance. With the fine collections of scientific books, biography, travel, fiction, and verse, the latest and best encyclopedias and atlases, the Oxford Companions to English and American literature, the latest magazines, and the daily newspapers, all these available in your library, you could not help being studious. You also enjoyed through the year the many attractive and educational displays which enlivened the bulletin boards and informed students of special interests, modern events, and achievements.

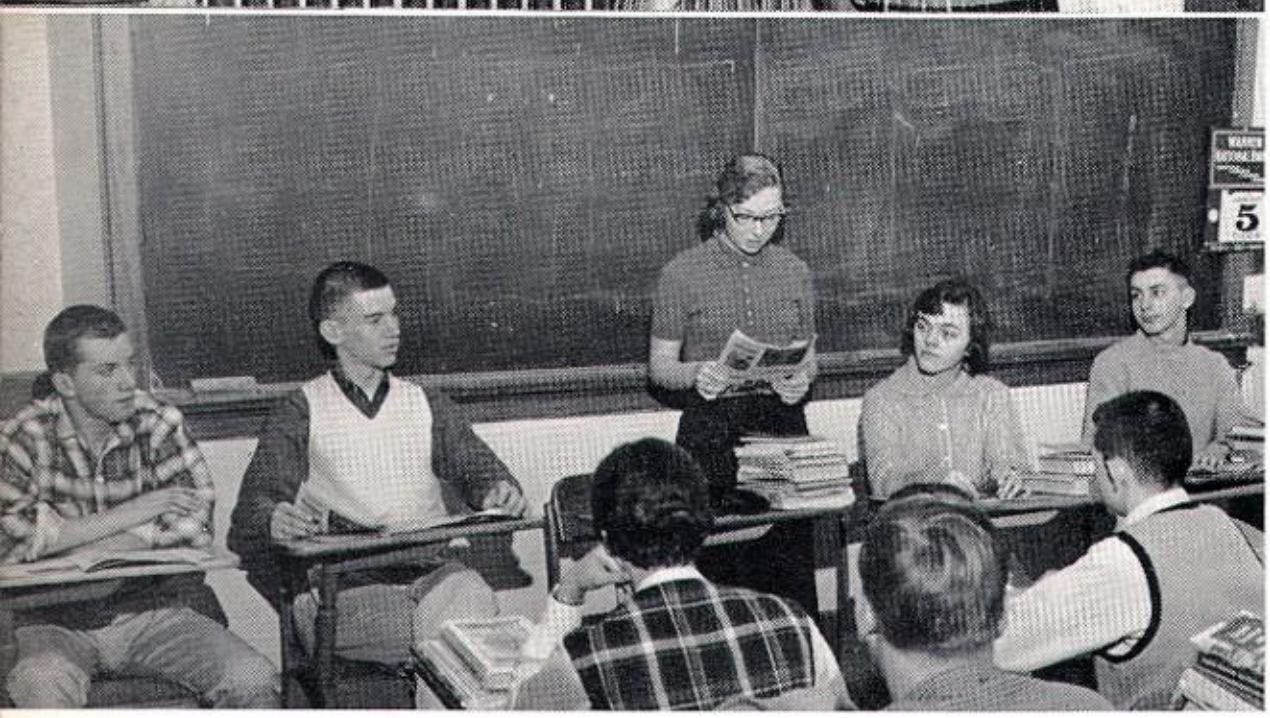
If you had any trouble in finding a book, you just asked Mrs. Sampson, your helpful librarian, or any of the cheerful library assistants to help you.

Rosanna Oberg, library assistant, performed a pleasant task in helping Saundra Groves to select an interesting book.

These library assistants he!ped Mrs. Sampson to take care of a lively book circulation.
First Row—Donna Jensen, Barbara Kofod, Saundra Groves, Nancy Goodwill, Rosanna Oberg, Judith Ponsoll, Nancy Nasman.
Second Row—Dennis Sampson, Kathleen Whipple, Wellen Briggs, Gloria Myers, Trudy Chase, Lynda Werlin.

SOCIAL STUDIES





Upper—Representatives to the Mock United Nations General Assembly studied its many beneficial functions and acquired a more active knowledge of the world's hope for peace. Those who attended were as follows: Seated—Rita Comberiati, Mary Lynn Brown, Lana Shield, Martha Fay, Elizabeth Urbaitis.
Standing—Douglas Arnold, Rodney Betts, Linda Elliott, David Frantz, Thomas Africa, Jeffrey Siggins.

Middle—Mr. Bell and a group of sophomore history students studied world events and located strategic points on the map.

Lower—Gloria Davis led a panel discussion on "Problems of the Home and the Family."

AMERICAN HISTORY

American history stressed the importance of the social, cultural, geographical, and economic developments which have made our country great. While becoming familiar with the past history of the United States, the juniors also discussed current events.

WORLD HISTORY

Students taking world history gained a keen perception of international affairs by studying the history and the changes of important present-day countries and their principal religions. Current events and discussions of our world in the future were also a regular part of these classes.

PROBLEMS OF DEMOCRACY

Problems of democracy, a new course this year, prepared students for problems which they might meet in life. Class discussions included family life and marriage, labor and industry, military obligations, elections, and state and local court systems.

Knowledge of the Past and the Present and Your Understanding of the Future.

ECONOMICS AND SOCIOLOGY

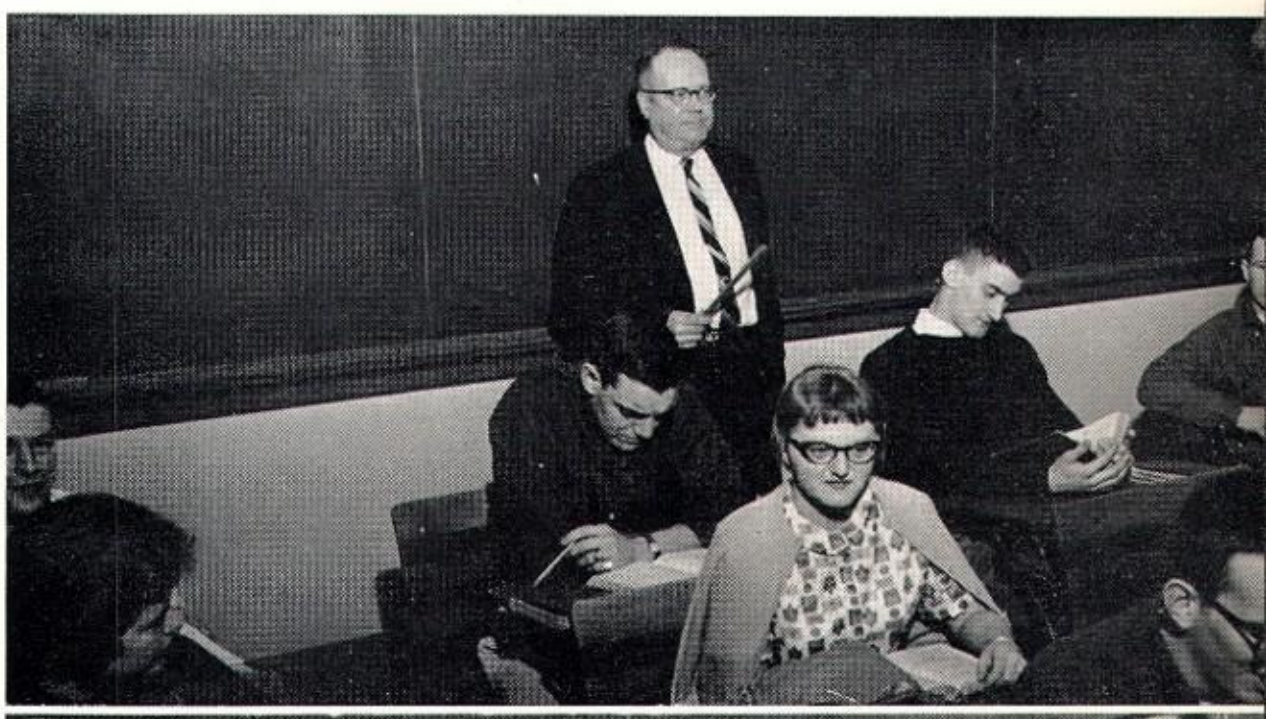
Many seniors with an interest in every day living problems elected economics and sociology. Discussions covered a variety of material and included the banking system, the value of stocks and bonds, labor problems, housing, wages, taxes, crime, delinquency, and additional topics vital to the material satisfaction of mankind.

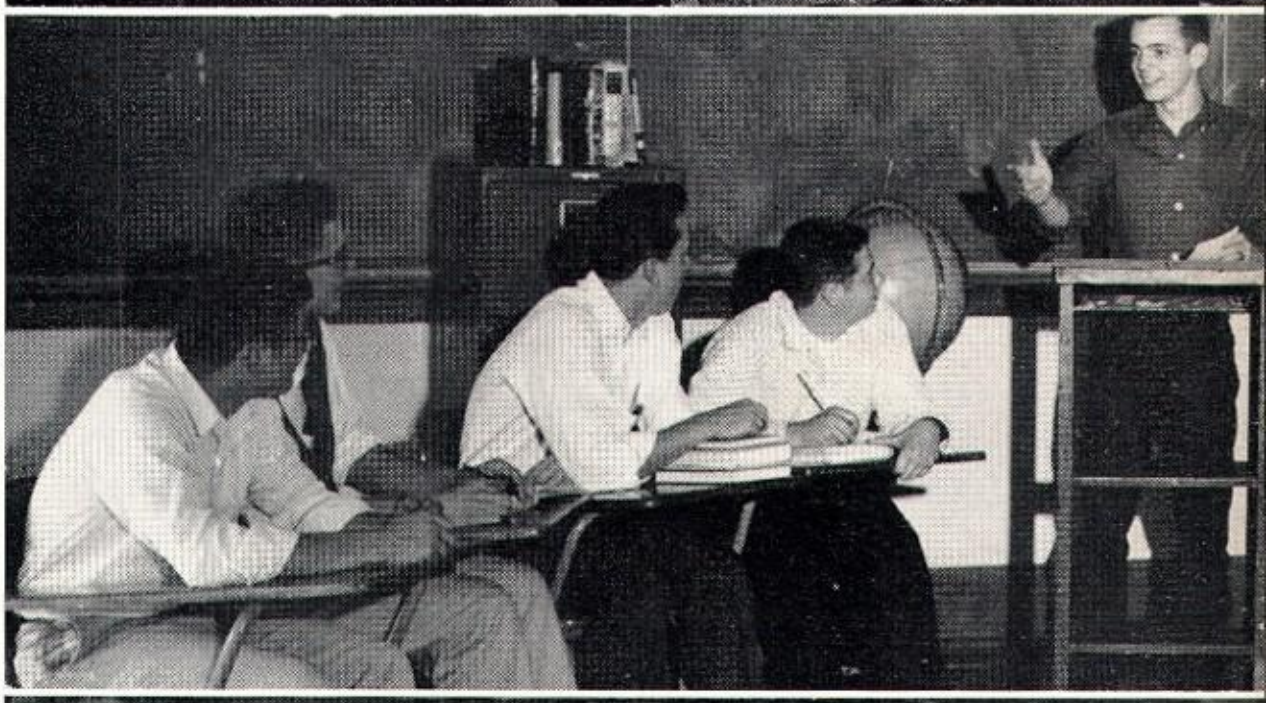
DEBATING

A class in debating had its beginning this year in Warren High. Emphasis lay on the study of argumentation, the choice of proposition, the preparation for the debate, and the final oral presentation. The class presented debates before the problems of democracy classes and a Beaty assembly. It was the hope that the high schools in Warren County would form a debating league in the near future.

CONSERVATION

The conservation students learned the great need for the wise and careful use of the natural resources of the United States. Field trips and speakers from various conservation agencies supplemented classroom work and supplied information about local resources.





Upper—Mr. Noecker's classes in economics investigated and discussed practical principles of banking.

Lower—In a vivid and forceful summary of his arguments, Gregg Nasky clinched a victory for the affirmative side on the question, "Resolved that the Federal Government should require compulsory arbitration in the basic industries."

On their field trip the conservation classes stopped at the Farnsworth Rearing Pond and enjoyed a talk by Homer Zepstein.

CHEMISTRY

Chemistry, an elective course for juniors and seniors, covered the field of basic inorganic chemistry.

With part of their class time devoted to laboratory experiments and part to discussion and lectures, chemistry classes made a study of the more important elements and compounds, their properties and uses. In their detailed laboratory reports, students learned how to describe correctly and concisely what they had seen and done.

Future chemists had the opportunity of preparing and testing oxygen and hydrogen in the laboratory.

SCIENCE

By using the new Cathode Ray Tube, physics students visualized a 15,000 volt current flowing through a partial vacuum.

PHYSICS

Laboratory work and experiments were important in the study of physics and enabled students to get practical experience in the various fields of heat, light, sound, electricity, motion, and force. The famous laws of Archimedes and Galileo and the theories set forth by Newton, Einstein, and others occupied the attention of these young physicists. A greater comprehension of the physical forces at work in the universe was the result of their study.

Observations from the study of life in the aquarium centered around the problem of the dependence of plant and animal life upon each other for survival.

BIOLOGY

With pictures, charts and actual dissection, biology students explored the structure, the functions, and the classificaiton of the plant and the animal kingdoms. Starting with the lower plant groups, the study included the more complex forms of the vegetable kingdom. From the simple animal forms students proceeded in their study of all phases of the animal kingdom to the highest vertebrates.

Contemplating the Wonders of Your Planet — the Royal Palace of Man.

The miscroscope revealed many unusual aspects of nature to the students studying science survey.

SCIENCE SURVEY

Science Survey was, as the name implied, a survey of general science. It was open to sophomores and included the study of the fundamentals of chemistry, physics, and biology.

MATHEMATICS

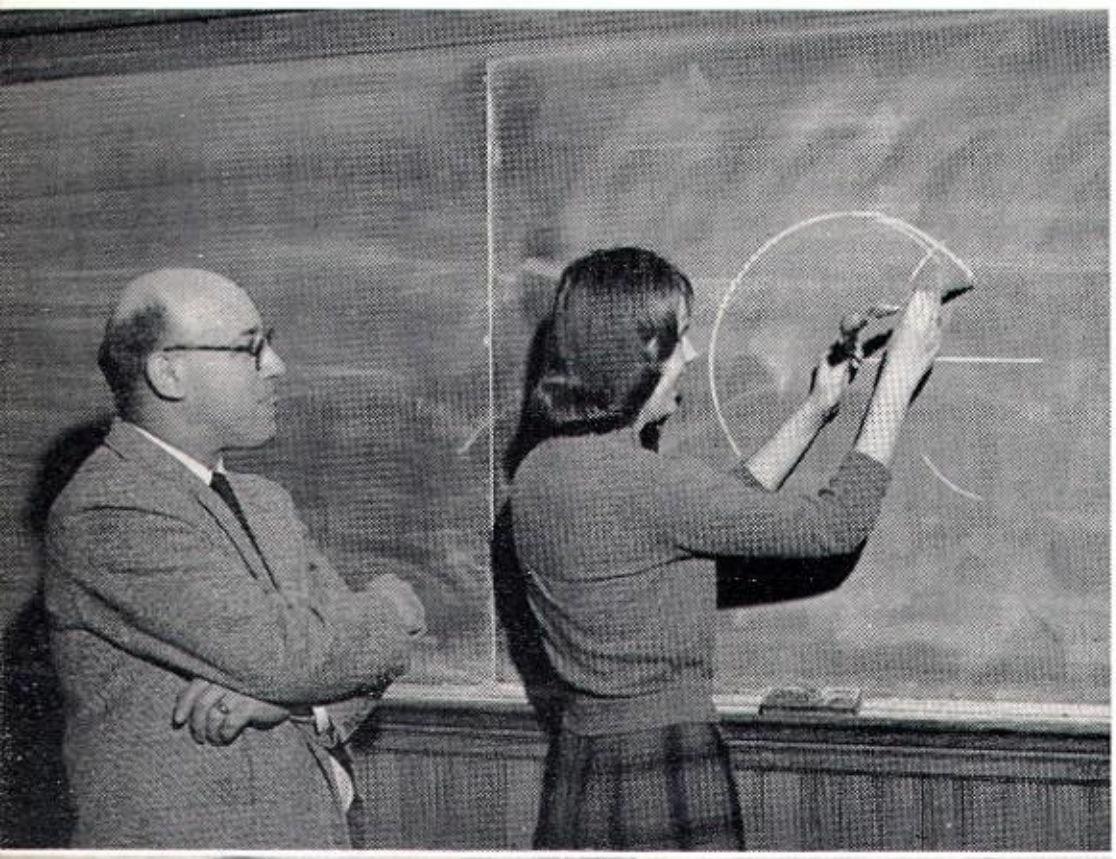
Accuracy, Skill and Orderly Thinking.

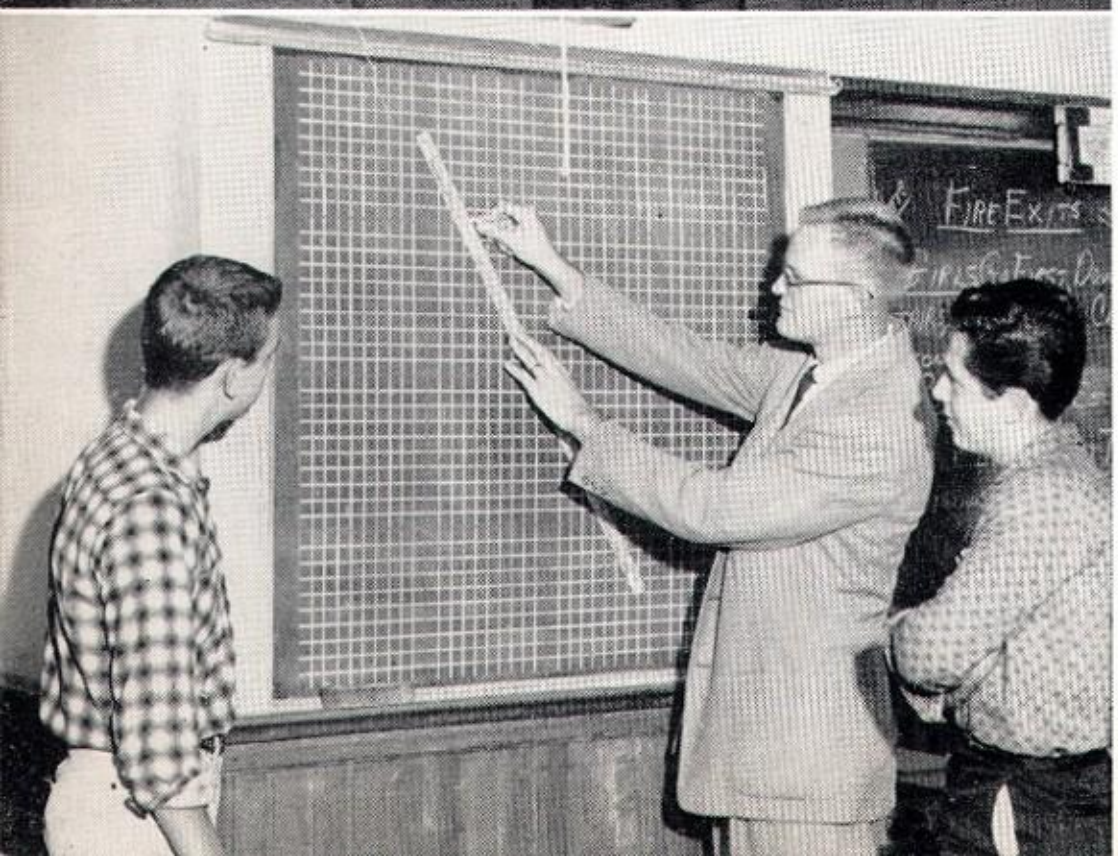
SOLID GEOMETRY, TRIGONOMETRY AND COLLEGE PREPARATORY MATH

Solid geometry, trigonometry and college preparatory mathematics were taught to senior students desiring to take mathematics courses. Solid geometry utilized the principles of geometry and algebra in application to special relations. Trigonometry provided an analytical approach to many every day problems. The college preparatory mathematics course included topics usually included in college freshman mathematics.

The slide rule was a supplementary aid to the students of advanced mathematics.

Upper—A beginner in plane geometry received instruction in constructing geometric figures.
Lower—Mr. Jewell demonstrated the plotting of an equation on a graph.





PLANE GEOMETRY

Many students selected this branch of the field of mathematics in their junior year. Plane geometry introduced the students to assumptions, theorems, proofs, constructions, and congruence of plane geometric figures. Besides learning to measure angles, they studied the similarity of figures and many of the other interesting concepts of this fascinating subject.

ALGEBRA

Another of the basic courses in mathematics was algebra. The first thing to puzzle algebra students was the term "X," followed by numbers with signs and exponents. By the end of the year, however, the students had mastered the fundamentals of algebraic procedures.

BUSINESS EDUCATION

A Challenge to You Preparing for the Business World.

Problems, vital to everyday life, challenged mathematicians to reason and understand as Miss Powell questioned their solution.

BUSINESS MATHEMATICS

Mastering the mathematics used in today's commerce was the primary purpose of this popular course. A review of the fundamentals of whole numbers, fractions, and percentage preceded stocks and bonds and the metric system. Earning, spending, saving, and investing were some of the practical phases, which made this course useful in everyday life as well as in business life.

BUSINESS TRAINING

In this course the students received a broad, over-all picture of business life. The students studied business methods and techniques that would benefit them in home and family life. During the year students made intensive studies of careers in which they were interested. They also bought and sold stock on an imaginary exchange.

OFFICE PRACTICE

Office practice gave a thorough knowledge of the operation of a modern business office. Spending much time in practice and simulated assignments, students learned to operate modern office machines, and they became more efficient in typing, shorthand, and English grammar.

Upper—The class in business training maintained the "Wall Street" of Warren High School.
Lower—Preparing for a business career, these office practice students became skilled in the operation of calculators, adding machines, electric typewriters, and transcribing machines.

Upper—Intent upon mastering typing in all its phases, these students practiced diligently under Miss Hawkins' guidance.
Lower—Looking forward to the day when they will hear, "Will you please take a letter?" these future stenographers learned the fundamentals of shorthand.

TYPING

All academic and business students in typing classes learned the various techniques and skills necessary to become efficient typists. Beginning with skill-building drills and exercises, they gradually typed brief words and simple sentences; in advanced classes they practiced typing important business forms.

SHORTHAND

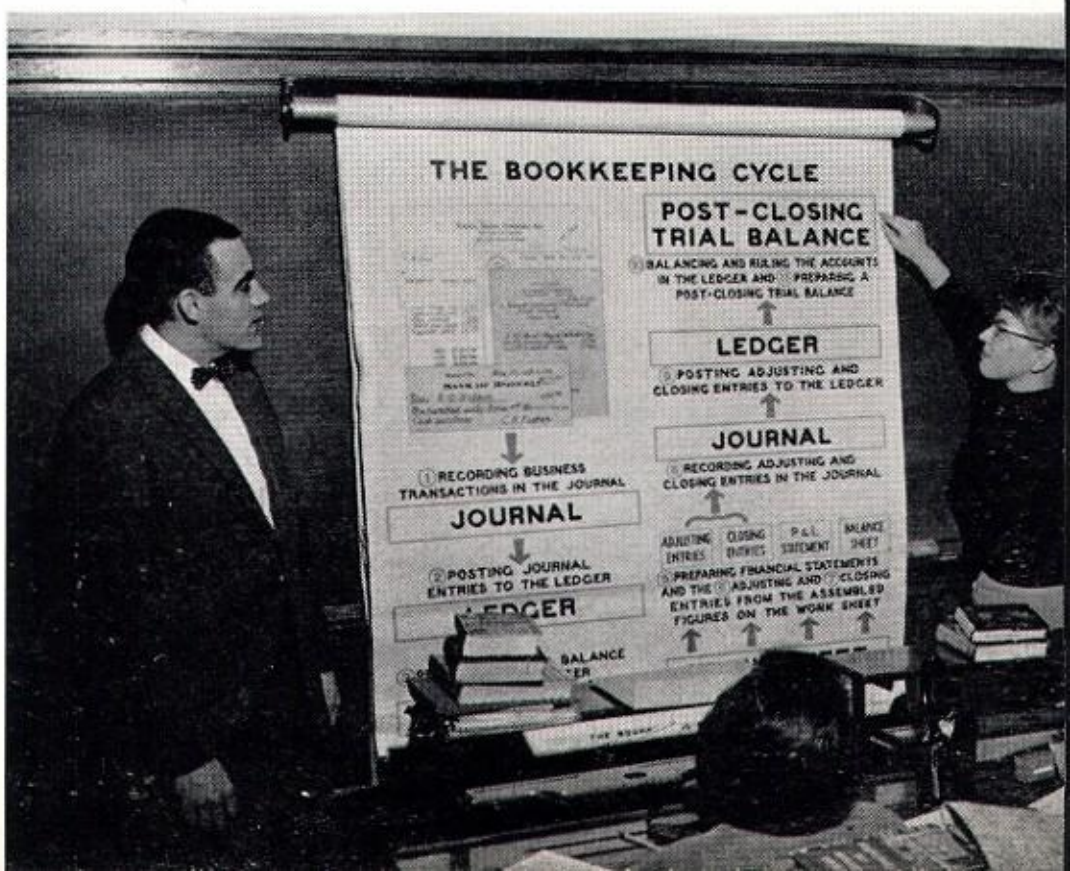
Learning the basic principles of shorthand was a primary aim of first year students. Gradually, they advanced to more complicated words and letters, concentrating on neatness and accuracy. Advanced students continued practicing the basic facets of shorthand and gained more experience by taking office dictation and transcribing their notes efficiently.

BOOKKEEPING

Bookkeeping, the practice of keeping a systematic record of business transactions, opened to students new vistas for future employment in commercial establishments. The essentials of bookkeeping, various income tax reports, business partnerships and payrolls were important phases of this study.

TODAY'S BUSINESS STUDENTS —

These future office workers attempted to become familiar with the Bookkeeping Cycle.

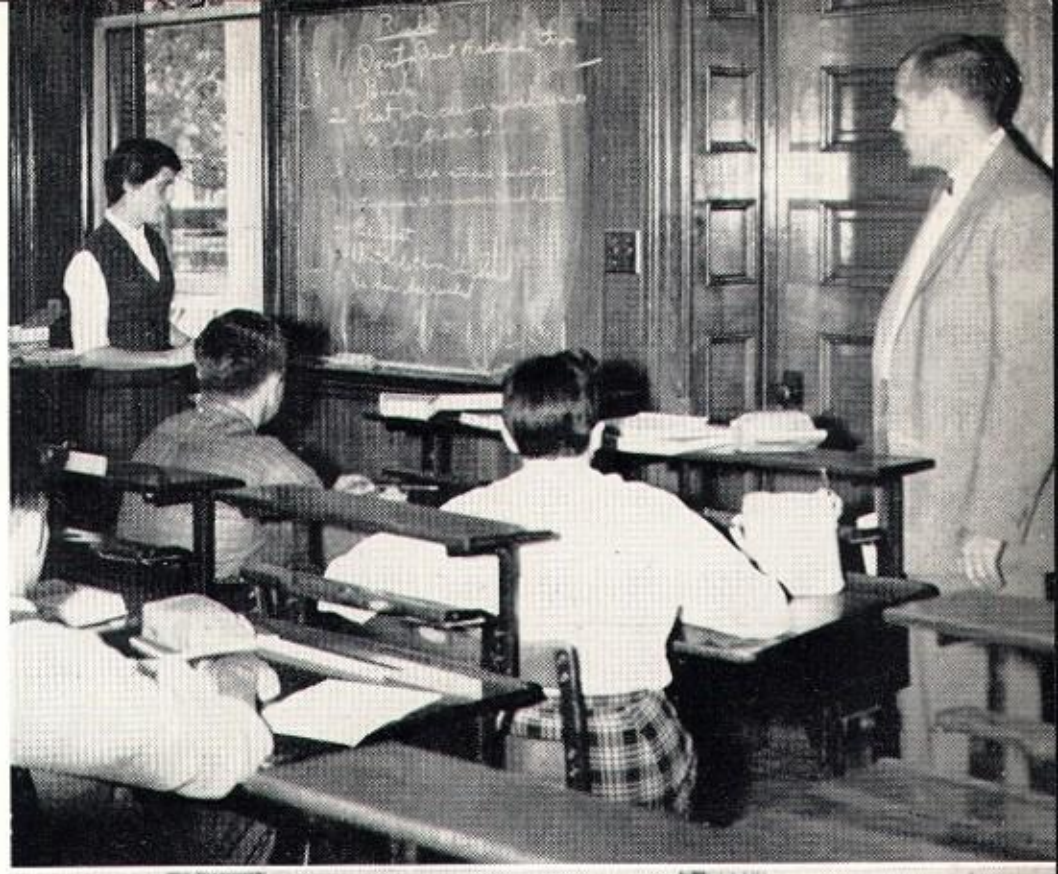


BUSINESS LAW

Enrolled in this class, commercial students learned the simple phases of law used in the world of business. Discussions dealt with legal buying and selling, contracts, employer-employee relationships, legal business methods, and the responsibilities of stores, small establishments, and individuals.

SALESMANSHIP

Salesmanship presented a concept of the entire field of selling and a background in customer relations. Concentration lay on salesmanship as used in retail stores, mail order businesses, and large manufacturing companies. This course had a practical value for everyone regardless of his choice of future career.



Upper—Under the watchful eye of Mr. Frits, Barbara Erickson reviewed the rules for customer relations in retail sel.ing.
Lower—Alice Andrew, Leo De Fabio, and Sandra Eberhardt were busy in producing copies from the mimeograph.

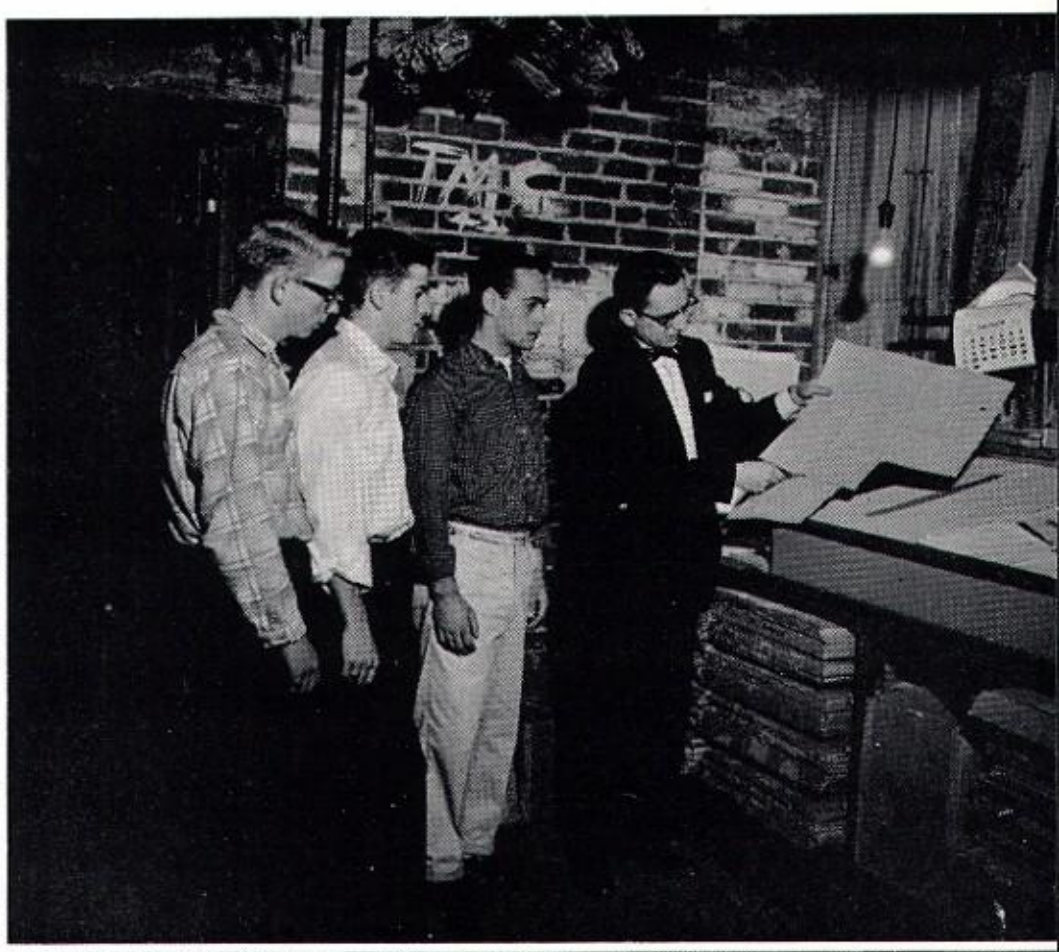
— TOMORROW'S BUSINESS LEADERS

Several members of the general business class listened attentively to Miss Mosebarger's explanation of a difficult problem.

GENERAL BUSINESS

Introducing students to the field of business was a primary aim of this class. During the semester, students became acquainted with business correspondence, elementary law, salesmanship, and job requirements.

DISTRIBUTIVE EDUCATION



Upper Left—Janet Shmonsky; Kay Knapp; Karen Wise; Marcia Anderson; Nancy Engel.
Uppen Right—Robert Buerkle; Dean Kays; Haro!d Kane; Forrest McAllister, Manager of J. C. Penney Co.
Lower Left—Dennis Dunn, Michael Kent, Douglas Baldensperger, Richard Lucia.

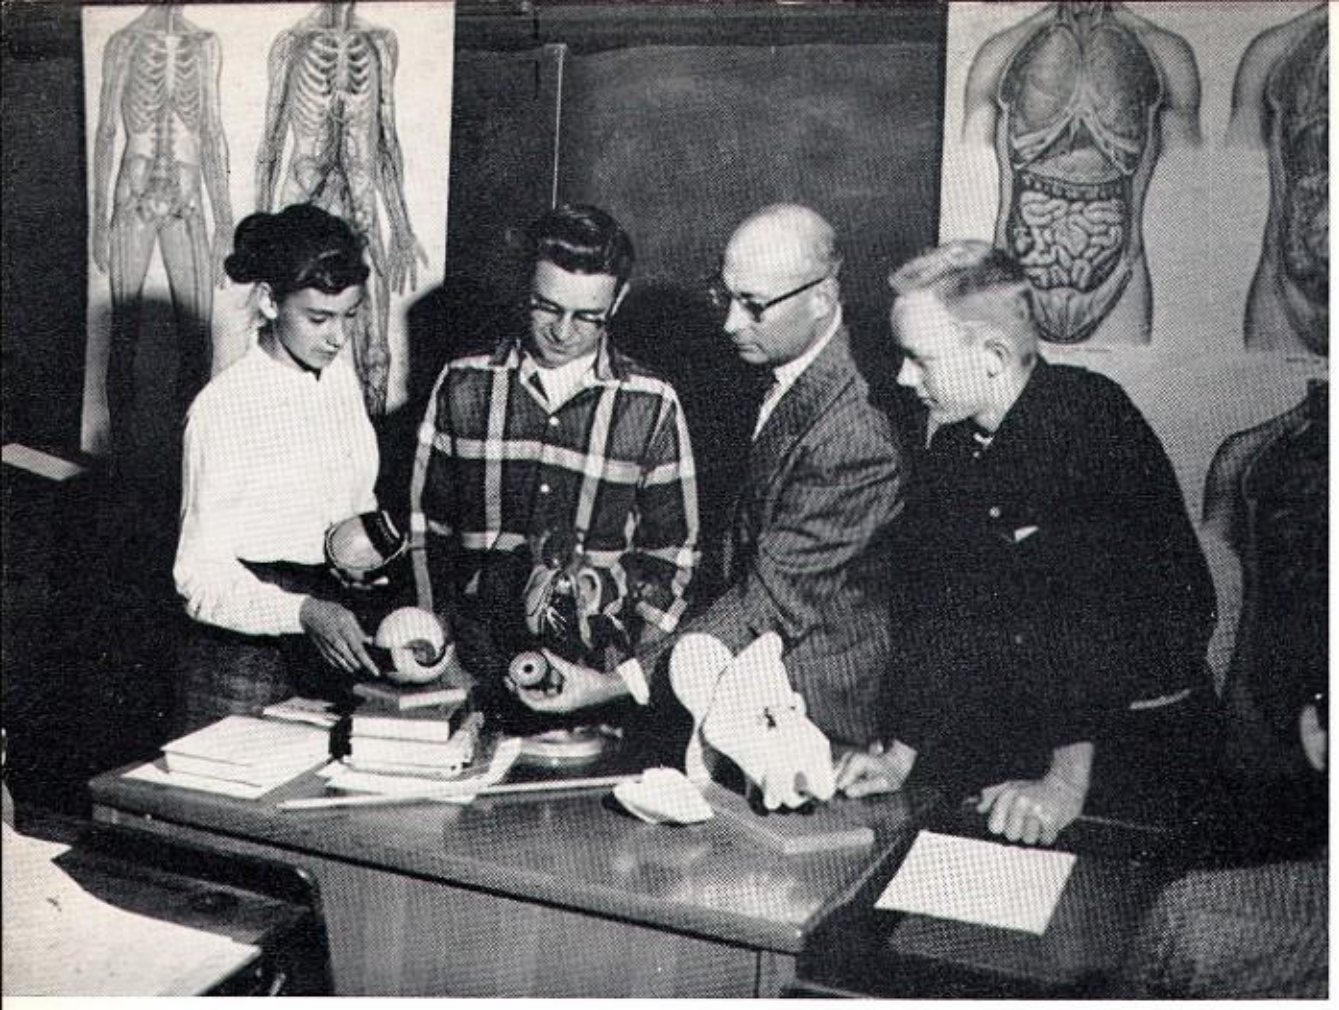
Earning and Learning.

Distributive education included instruction and practical application in the retail sale of merchandise and in other consumer services. Retail merchandising, merchandise information, job problems, and retail-store English formed the core of study. Other phases of the course emphasized correctness in applying for jobs, supervision of other employees and manager-owner problems, stockkeeping, retail mathematics, advertising, and display.

This program called for class participation during the morning and practical work during the afternoon, Friday evening, and Saturday. Each teen-ager spent a minimum of fifteen hours per week on the job. Employers rated regularly these students on appearance, attendance, ability to follow instructions, enthusiasm, and co-operation.

Lower Left—William Clark; James Jenkins; Thomas Peterson; Dennis York; Stanley Warren, Assistant Manager of J. C. Penney Co.
Upper Right—Shirley Brooks, Katherine Dombeck, Mary Ann Woodley, Sandra Bednez, Gloria Thompson.



By the use of models and charts health classes visualized the intricate structure of the human body.

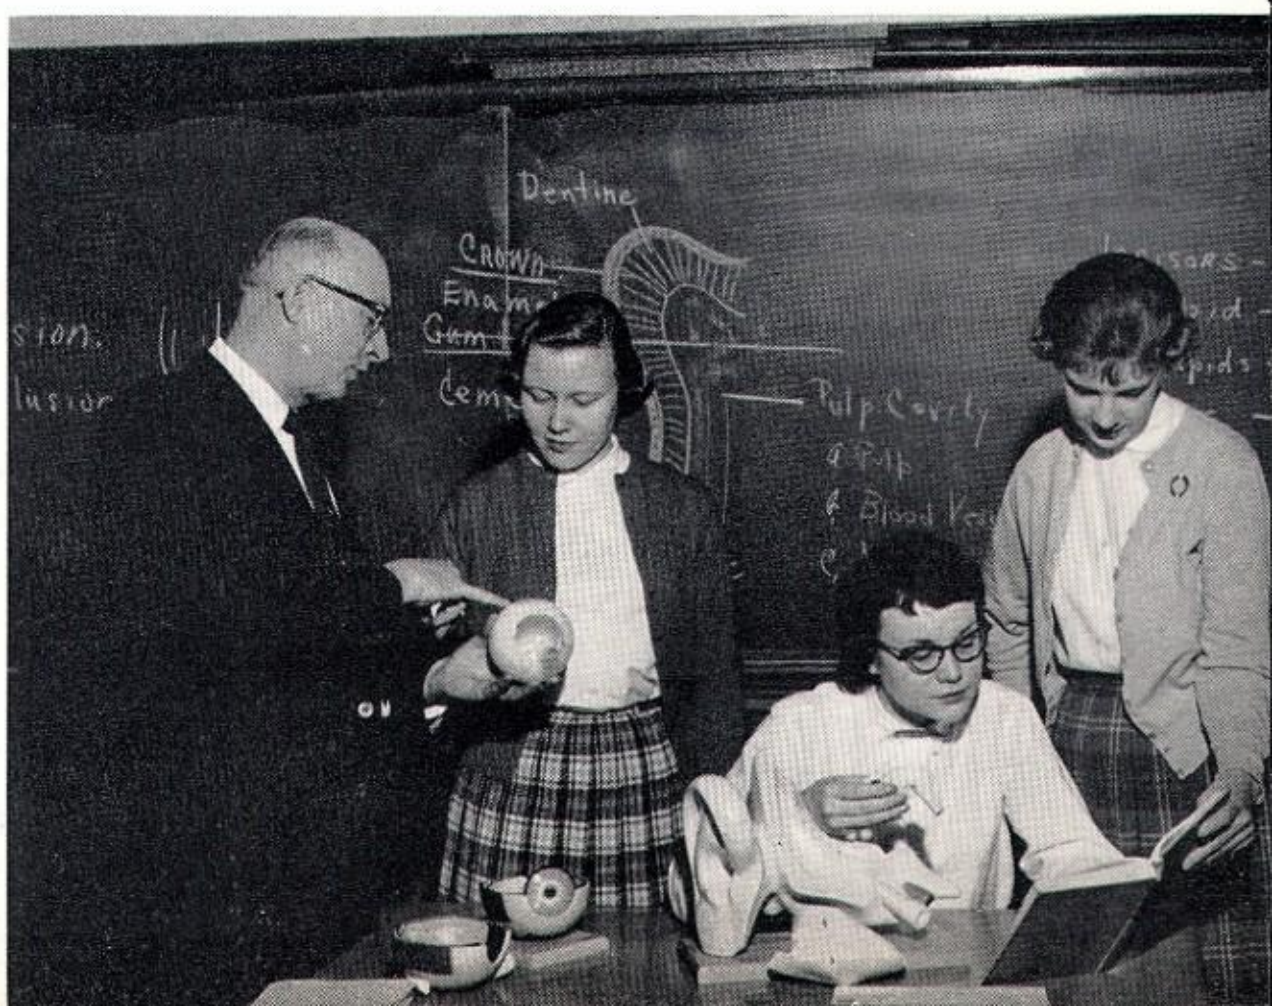
HEALTH

This required course gave sophomores reliable information concerning the safeguarding of their health. The material touched on the anatomy and the physiology of the body, the treatment of diseases of the body, medicine and nutrition.

HEALTH

Physical Fitness and Mental Alertness.

Intense study and keen interest kept these senior girls working toward their goals in the field of medicine.



ANATOMY

Senior girls intending to enter the fields of nursing, medicine, or biology were able to take anatomy for a semester. Here the students learned the complex structure of the body, its diseases, and their influences. They also became acquainted with medical terminology useful to them in future classes.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION FOR BOYS

Physical education for boys did more than serve as a recreation period, for it developed character, sportsmanship, co-ordination, and physical ability. Gym held an important part in the curriculum, and the boys participated in softball, wrestling, football, basketball, tumbling, and volleyball. They practiced muscle-building by means of calisthenics and weight lifting. Physical tests during the year showed each boy's ability and development.

A volleyball game, often becoming rough, tough, and fast, was a good physical conditioner.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Recreation and Strong Bodies.

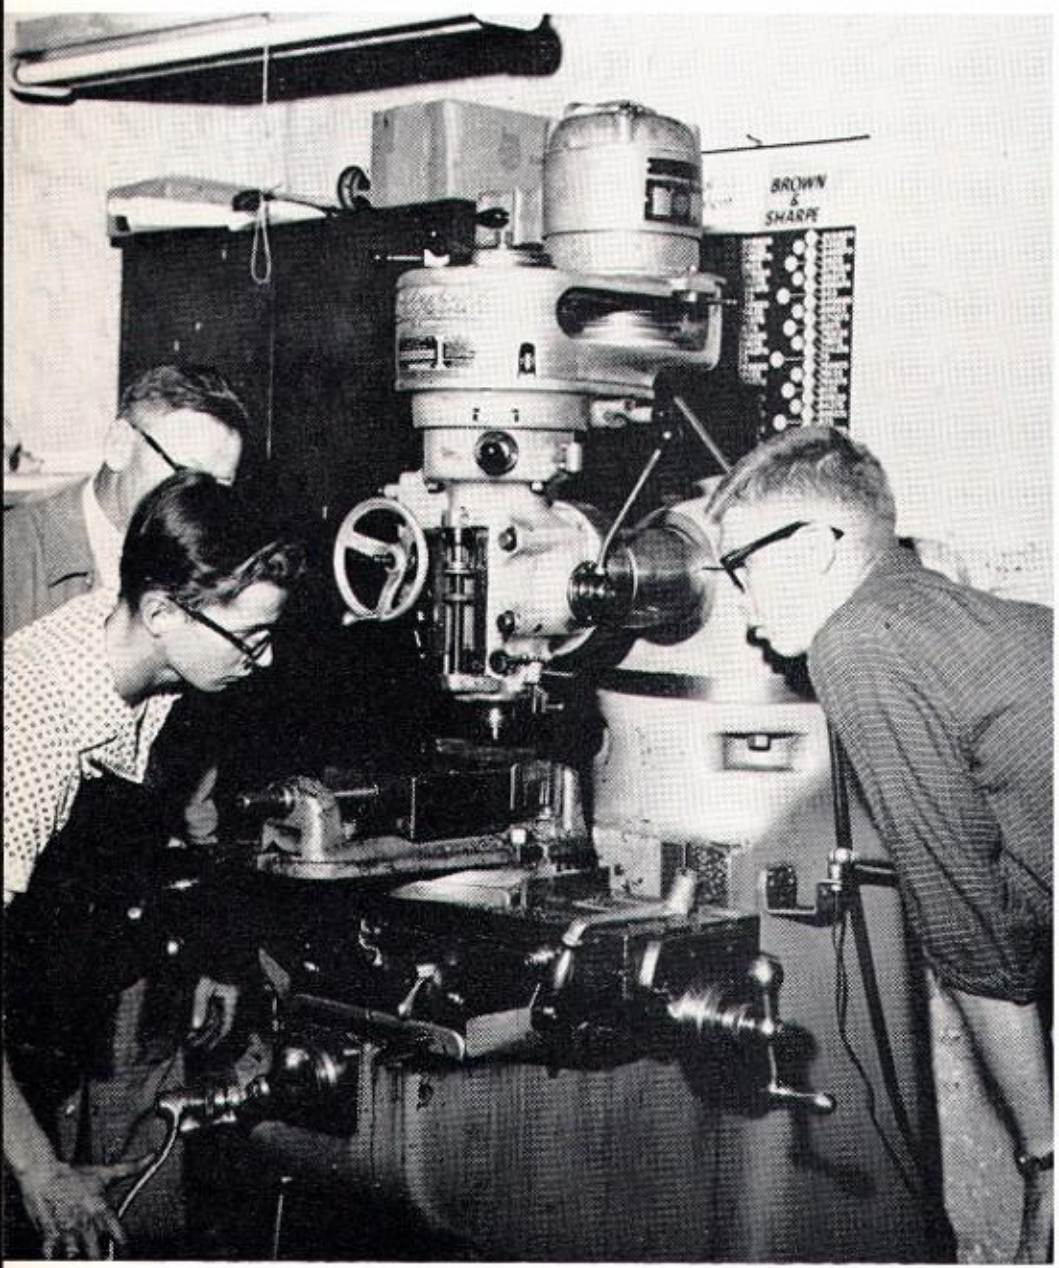
A class in calisthenics for girls improved their co-ordination and developed their various skills.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION FOR GIRLS

Although the girls took part in less strenuous sports, they, too, developed co-ordination and co-operation. They developed good posture habits from calisthenics, relays, and drills. The aim of dancing during class periods was to acquire grace and poise. Believing that physical fitness is an important aspect in their lives, the girls participated in a well-rounded physical program.

SHOP

Preparing Future Mechanics for the Industrial World.



Mechanically-minded boys received practical experience in machine shop classes.

Boys who were interested in knowing the fundamentals of machine tool operation had a chance in the shop classes to exercise their interest while making useful products. They undertook wrought iron projects, which included overnight lamps, candle holders, flower pot holders, hurricane lamps, coffee and end tables, telephone and plant stands, stools, and outside lamp posts. Aside from the more decorative articles the shop boys made a group of tools including center, prick, pin, and drift punches and chisels. Other useful articles for machinists were parallel and C clamps, wheel pullers, gears, and special taps.

HOME ECONOMICS

Stylish Fashions and Savory Dishes.

Ninety-seven girls elected home economics. Some had as their aim to become good home members and efficient homemakers, while others hoped to enter the business world as dieticians, nutritionists, designers, buyers, and teachers. These girls learned to make their own clothing and to plan, prepare, and serve appetizing and well-balanced meals. Two home projects presented valuable experience to each girl.

Left—Home economics classes worked out stunning color schemes and attractive designs in planning new spring clothes.

Right—The aroma of good food from room 12 showed beyond doubt that a group of eager girls were interested in learning the art of the "way to a man's heart."

DRIVER EDUCATION

Working for Skill and Safety in Driving.

Left—Mr. Passaro received the keys to the horseless carriages of 1960, which arrived for the use of driver education and road practice.

Right—The signs of our times illustrated in class the need for concentrated attention in driving.

In a required semester course juniors and a few sophomores who had reached their sixteenth birthday by the beginning of the second semester learned the fundamentals of b e c o m i n g sportsmanlike drivers.

Through the co-operation of several local car dealers, actual road practice was available to some students so that they could practice the theories they had studied in class. Aided by motion pictures, tests, and discussions in the classroom, students learned the mechanics of good driving procedure.

After completing the eye tests required of all applicants for drivers' licenses, and after driving under the escort of the state policeman, Jim Johnson returned to the Armory for oral questioning.

ART

Developing Originality.

Abstracts and pictures of still life were phases of the students' varied art study.

ART

The creative world of art attracted many students who wished to develop their individual talents in freehand drawing, ceramics, and commercial art. With great hopes of displaying their work at the Art Exhibit, these artists pursued the stimulating fields of pen and pencil sketches, water colors, pastels, oil paints, charcoal, leather, and clay.

For boys interested in the practical arts of drafting, industry, carpentry, and allied fields, mechanical drawing in Mr. Schultz's class offered many opportunities to gain knowledge of valuable fundamentals.

MECHANICAL DRAWING

Requiring Precision and Accuracy.

Striving for neatness, accuracy, and legibility, the mechanical drawing students learned the fundamentals of this course. Their practice emphasized printing, shading, and drawing complex geometric figures and orthographic projections. This subject was a valuable aid to those students planning to enter the engineering field.

Two early fall concerts helped to prepare A Cappella Choir members for their many Christmas concerts. At the Christmas concert at Beaty Auditorium the three choirs, accompanied by the orchestra, sang the cantata "Childe Jesus" by Clokey. Completing the evening's entertainment, the A Cappella Choir and the orchestra rendered individual selections. A second rendition of the same Christmas program brought joy and happiness to the Warren State Hospital patients.

The choir devoted much time and effort to the preparation of their outstanding programs of the year, the Winter and Spring Concerts.

To represent the choir, Christopher Creal, Ronald Ace, Joseph Manno, Robert Putnam, Carol Kurz, Violet Biekarck, Donna Jones, and Geraldine Lindberg, outstanding choir members chosen for their singing ability, attended the Northwest District Choral Festival at Oil City in January.

Participation in the Baccalaureate Service brought a solemn finish to a year of fun and hard work shared by the choir members.

Your Orchestra

One of Warren High's Most Respected and Indispensable Musical Groups.

Your orchestra made its first public appearance during the intermissions of the Senior Play and entertained the audience with several fine selections.

Rehearsals soon began for the Christmas Festival in which the orchestra co-operated with the choral groups.

Featuring Mrs. Anthony Papalia as guest harpist, this fine musical organization held its exchange concert with Kane in January.

The Orchestra also played for radio broadcasts and at the Warren State Hospital.

Early in the spring a few select musicians represented Warren at the Northwest District Orchestra Festival at Meadville. This out-of-town concert in April brought to an end a very busy year.

Front Row—Susan Lutz, Penelope Morgan, Patricia Hudock, Donna Cramer, Judy Brecht, Linda Berenfield, John Aldrich.

Back Row—Dennis Sampson, James Brindis, Kathleen Whiteshot, Mary Wendelboe, John Tickner, Patricia Reiter, Kendall Kinander, Dennis Pritchard, Elizabeth Urbaitis, Linda Cobb, Mary Pat Gibson.

Your Band

One of the Busiest Organizations.

Your Dragon Band, attired in their blue and white uniforms, attended all the home football games and most of the out-of-town games and added zest and enthusiasm with their precision and difficult maneuvers on the field.

The band sponsored the Harvest Festival in October. To reign as queen over the festival, the students chose Carol Papalia, with Minna Bosin, Karen Grundberg, Marcia Parise, and Mary Stein as members of her court.

At the conclusion of the football season the band settled down to practice concert music in the auditorium. The annual mid-winter concert occurred in March, and in April the band presented a concert in North East.

Richard Naujoks, John Tickner, and James Alexander represented Warren High in District Band at Erie East High School.

Front Row—Virginia Cunningham, Edwina Hancox, Sally Andrews, Brenda Hanson, Gerald Damond, Peggy Holt, Jill Sackett, Sue Martin, Dolores Mallery, Kendall Kinander, Patricia Reiter, John Tickner.

Johnny,

I wish you the very very best of luck in everything you do in the coming years - You deserve it. Golly this year has gone so fast - I can hardly believe that this year has gone already - You helped it to go so fast - Honestly I never had such a year as this year. They say you will always remember your senior year and I'm sure I will - Whenever I smell pizza I will always remember the times at Pacis with Pat and Becky, you, Murry and Bob. All the concerts we've had fun and all the good times. I will never forget all the good times. I am sorry I got mad the few times - at the prom and drowning home that nite - I really wasn't mad but was just teasing. I hope you know that!

Thanks for giving me a swell senior year. One that I'll never forget. I will be getting back one of these days - I hope - Before I go to school on Sept. 12 - I will be up to the new school to see how things are going. It seems funny - because I didn't know you before this year - Just think all this wouldn't have happened if we weren't in acapella. Don't ever forget this year in Acapella your first year and my last! Be good next year and take good care of yourself this summer. Be seeing always

SENIOR PLAY

You Can't Take It With You.

Roars of laughter rang through the Beaty Auditorium on November 18 and 19, when the Senior class presented the play, "You Can't Take It With You." The hysterical comedy was about the zany Sycamore family and the strange activities of some of its members. The manufacturer of fireworks, the printing of propaganda in the living room, and Grandpa's interview with the tax collector all added to the heart-warming and chuckle-provoking atmosphere.

The seniors who took part in the play were Jim Alexander, Bob August, Linda Berenfield, Denny Bonavita, Rosemarie Dangelo, Marcia Elmquist, Jack Fallin, Penny Gigliotti, Dave Grady, Paul Johnson, Donna Knapp, Bill Lombard, Kathleen McDannel, Brenda Munson, Gregg Nasky, Rosanna Oberg, Joe Ponsoll, and Ron Quicksall.

Upper Left—With all the situations of the busy day well under control the entire Sycamore family and their friends sat down to a quiet evening meal.
Upper Right—Gay Wellington, portrayed by Donna Knapp, displayed her acting talents on the horrified Mr. Kirby, played by Jim Alexander.
Lower Left—Mr. Kirby was worked over this time by Kolenkow, Jack Fallin, who tried to show him the fundamentals of wrestling.
Lower Right—An enthusiastic painter, Mrs. Sycamore, Rea Dangelo, returned to the unfinished portrait of Mr. Pinna, Joe Ponsoll, that she had started many years ago.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Scholarship, Leadership, Character and Service.

The National Honor Society had two aims: first, to recognize leaders of the class; secondly, to stimulate in these leaders a desire to render service to their school. Induction of the members occurred three times during the year, twice for seniors and once for juniors. The main project of the society this year was to raise funds for two scholarships, which were awarded at Commencement. The society financed this project by the sale of senior name cards and also by a talent show presented for the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs. This talent show also proved to be a very enjoyable assembly for the student body.

President .....William Elmhurst
Vice President .....Ruth Hamilton
Secretary .....Violet Biekarck
Treasurer .....Evan Lanman
Advisor .....Miss Steele

The December induction in the National Honor Society included the following students:
Front Row—Dolores Mallery, Carol Papalia, Judy Donovan, Frances Richwalsky, Barbara Kofod.
Second Row—Meredith Sandberg, Elizabeth Urbaitis, Donna Jones, Miss Steele.
Third Row—John Tickner, John Marymont, David Grady.
Back Row—James Nordine, Jack Fallin, James Alexander.

Front Row—Nancy Goodwill, Ruth Ann Hamilton, Linda Berenfield, Toni Pace, Violet Biekarck, Rosanna Oberg, Linda Dashem, Susan Werner, Grace Cederquist.
Second Row—Dennis Bonavita, Evan Lanman, Ross Kremer, Christopher Creal, William Elmhurst, Jean Massa, Richard Elmhurst, Richard Fowler, Victor Genberg, Steven Cullinane, John Aldrich.

Warren	39	Oil City	13
Warren	26	Meadville	0
Warren	28	Ridgway	7
Warren	0	Kane	13
Warren	25	Jamestown	13

Upper—Springing from his opponent's grasp, the elusive Dragon speedster clutched the ball and dashed toward the goal line.

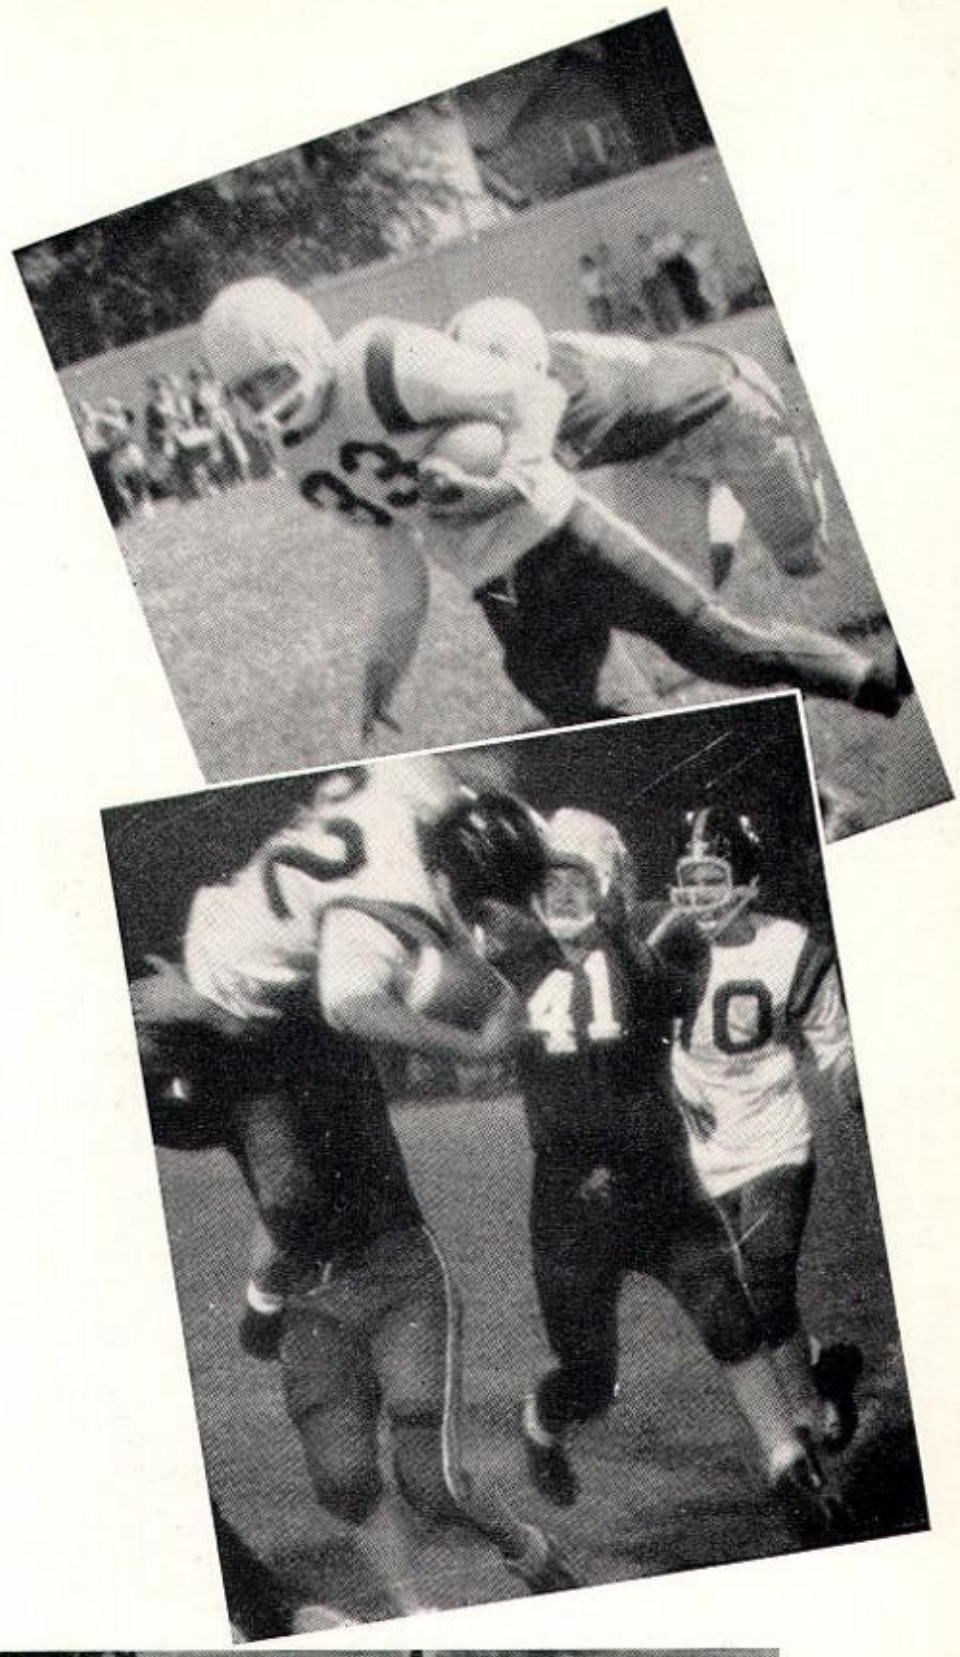
Lower—Speed and enthusiasm were two of the driving forces behind these sturdy men of the gridiron.

Front Row—James Forslund, John Mead, Ross Kremer, Robert Long, Richard White.
Second Row—Ralph Caldin, David Reynolds, Ronald Bonavita, John Wooster, Thomas Fadale.
Third Row—Michael Long, Michael Madigan, Robert Nixon, Judy Lobdell, Harland Brian, Robert Putnam.
Back Row—Mr. Stimmel, William Lombard.

Under the leadership of six returning lettermen, Warren began the season by defeating the Corry Beavers. On the following week-ends the Dragons experienced losses to Franklin and Titusville. Rounding out the league play, Warren outscored Oil City and Meadville and earned third place in the league.

Ridgway was next on the list to feel the Dragons' mighty surge. After a defeat by the Kane Wolves, the undaunted Warren team invaded the Red Raiders' home ground to thwart a pressing Jamestown squad. In the second half of the game Warren completely outplayed the Raiders and won a decisive victory.

Mr. Veights and the other coaches deserved a great deal of credit for their efforts toward molding a winning team.



Upper—Pat Hartnett, one of the team's most promising juniors, outmaneuvered his opponent during an exciting game.

Lower—Steel arms and the will to win held this opponent back.

Front Row—James Wick, Philip Jewell, John Colvin, Bernard Hessley, David Grady, Charles Grinnen.
Second Row—Terry Henry, Larry Lawton, William Sedwick, Jake Shulman, Raymond Barrett.
Third Row—James Cerra, Lawrence Moyer, Jack Fallin, Ronald Seder, Jack Siggins, Terry Andersen.

Inexperience did not hinder the Dragons, although they faced a year of rebuilding. With its defeats as well as victories, the season demonstrated the determination of the Massa men. Two losses started the season, but the team had a fine comeback and won the next seven games.

An untimely upset in the middle of the season at the hands of the Franklin Knights broke Warren's first place in the league. However, in their next game they romped over the Kane Wolves in the last seconds of overtime with a score of 54-52.

Large crowds were always on hand to cheer the Warren men on to victory, and they never lost hope, not even during a losing game. Both the spectators and the players deserved commendation for their sportsmanship and determination to make this a good basketball season for Warren.

TRACK

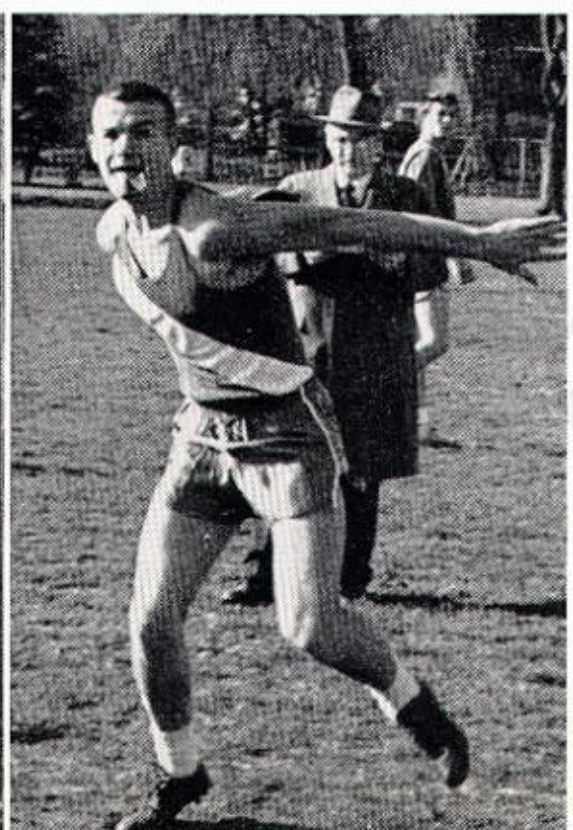
Richard Fowler, James Wick, Jack Fallin, Rodney Betts, John Aldrich, Peter Ostergard, Brian McIntosh, Stuart Rydgren, Hyman Shulman, Coach Briggs.

Thinclads in Action.

Early spring work-outs began the intensive activity of the track squad. The experience of nine returning lettermen added confidence and support. After rigorous calisthenics in the gym, the team moved outdoors when the weather was suitable. Then began the individual work of perfecting the broad jump, pole vault, discus, and other field events. Other thinclads worked on the strenuous endurance tests and developed speed.

Mr. Briggs, Mr. Bell, and Mr. Kauffman deserved credit for their hard work and fine record.

Left—With a final burst of energy John Aldrich, tearing through the finish-line, won for the relay team.
Right—Dick Fowler concentrated upon the windup and then hurled the discus through the air with the greatest of ease.



The Rifle Team represented the Rifle Club and Warren High in many competitive meets.

RIFLE CLUB

Aiming for Perfection.

Each Tuesday brought the sound of gunfire from the Beaty Rifle Range during Rifle Club practice. The first step in becoming a good marksman was learning the proper handling of the rifle and its care and cleaning. The members then went on to study the control needed for accurate shooting and the positions for firing. During the year they progressed from prone to sitting, to kneeling, and finally to standing positions.

Competition began by matching skills in the club and continued against neighboring teams in this area.

Back Row—James Heald, Roger Thoma, Jack Lawson, Melvin Uplinger, Tom Brady, Wrayburn Haynes.

VARSITY WRESTLERS—Kneeling—Tony Ross, James Frantz, Mr. Miller, Ralph Bibeau.
Standing—Richard Cummings, Michael Long, Larry Campbell, Thomas Sleeman, Roger Colvin, Robert Long, John Colvin, Ronald Seder, Everett Haight, John Mead, James Wick.

WRESTLING

Tops at Pinning.

The wrestling squad, strengthened by nine returning lettermen, compiled a very successful record of six victories, two defeats, and one tie. The Dragons placed second in sectional competition for the second consecutive year. The only man to go into district competition was James Wick, who supported a record of nine victories for his first season. Mr. Miller and Mr. Jewell deserved much credit for helping to develop this fine record.

The Junior Varsity, coached by Mr. Jewell, also produced a fine record of six victories and two losses.

JUNIOR VARSITY WRESTLERS—Kneeling—David Doherty, James Grinnen, Terry Brant, James Johnson, Brian McIntosh, Charles Grinnen.
Standing—Richard Swick, Louis Musante, John Wooster, Robert Duffy, Eugene Wilson, William Anderson, Mr. Jewell.

Co-ordination, co-operation, and inspiration led Warren High athletes to many victories and the winning of many medals.

LETTERMEN'S ASSOCIATION

The League of Letters.

The requirement for admission to the Lettermen's Association was, as the title suggests, a letter in one of the various fields of Warren sports: football, basketball, baseball, wrestling, track, golf, and riflery. The two-fold aim of this organization was to create worthwhile activities for the lettermen and to promote sportsmanship in the school.

These athletes had a variety of interests. They provided ushers for the basketball and the wrestling contests. They directed traffic at the Beaty parking lot during school functions. They were also available to lend a hand when other organizations needed manpower.

On a special day set aside for the Lettermen, the boys proudly donned their hard-earned letters and sweaters.

Middle Row—Peter Ostergard, Richard White, Michael Madigan, William Sedwick, Douglas Lind, Donald Smith, Ross Kremer, Stuart Rydgren, Robert Long, Jerry Wilson, John Aldrich, Wrayburn Haynes.

Ross Kremer and Penelope Barley teed off with the ease and the grace characteristic of professionals.

GOLF

Up to Par

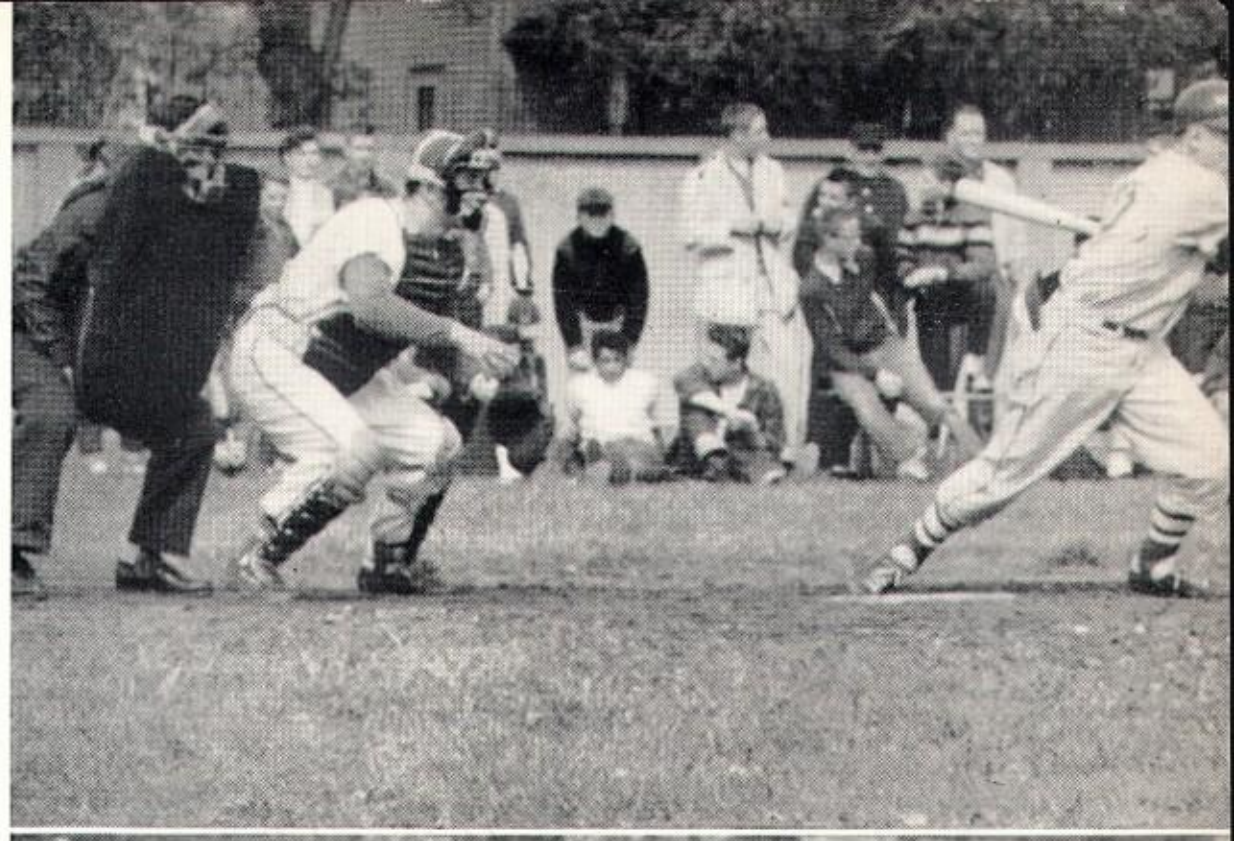
Beginning their third year of varsity competition, the members of the golf team spent many worthwhile hours in practice for their approaching matches. The experience gained in the preceding year by the five returning lettermen proved to be a valuable asset to the team as a unit. Mr. Frits, the coach of the team, helped each player to improve his strokes. The golf course at the Conewango Valley Country Club was the scene of all the home matches.

Christopher Creal, Jack Hamilton, William Sedwick, Penelope Barley, Ross Kremer, John Marymont, Bradford Smith.

BASEBALL

Hit and Run!

With a nucleus of six returning lettermen, the baseball team began practice upon the arrival of spring. Many drills, which consisted of fielding, batting, and scrimmaging, enabled the players to be in top physical shape for their first game. Coached by Mr. Williams and Mr. Stimmel, the team meritd praise for its good record and fine example of sportsmanship.



Upper—Doug Lind slashed a double into center field.
Lower—Everyone tensed when the ball headed toward the fielder.

Mr. Stimme', Advisor; Richard White; Michael Madigan; Harold Kane; Ronald Seder; John Wooster; Douglas Lind; Judy Lobdell; Mr. Williams, Advisor.

OFFICERS AND SPORTS MANAGERS

Seated—Sharon Ahlgren, Vice President; Meredith Sandberg, Sports Manager; Judith Andree, President; Linda Dashem, Sports Manager; Mary Hagerman, Sports Manager.
Standing—Lonna Cassell, Sports Manager; Lana Shield, Sports, Manager.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Intramural Games and Excitement.

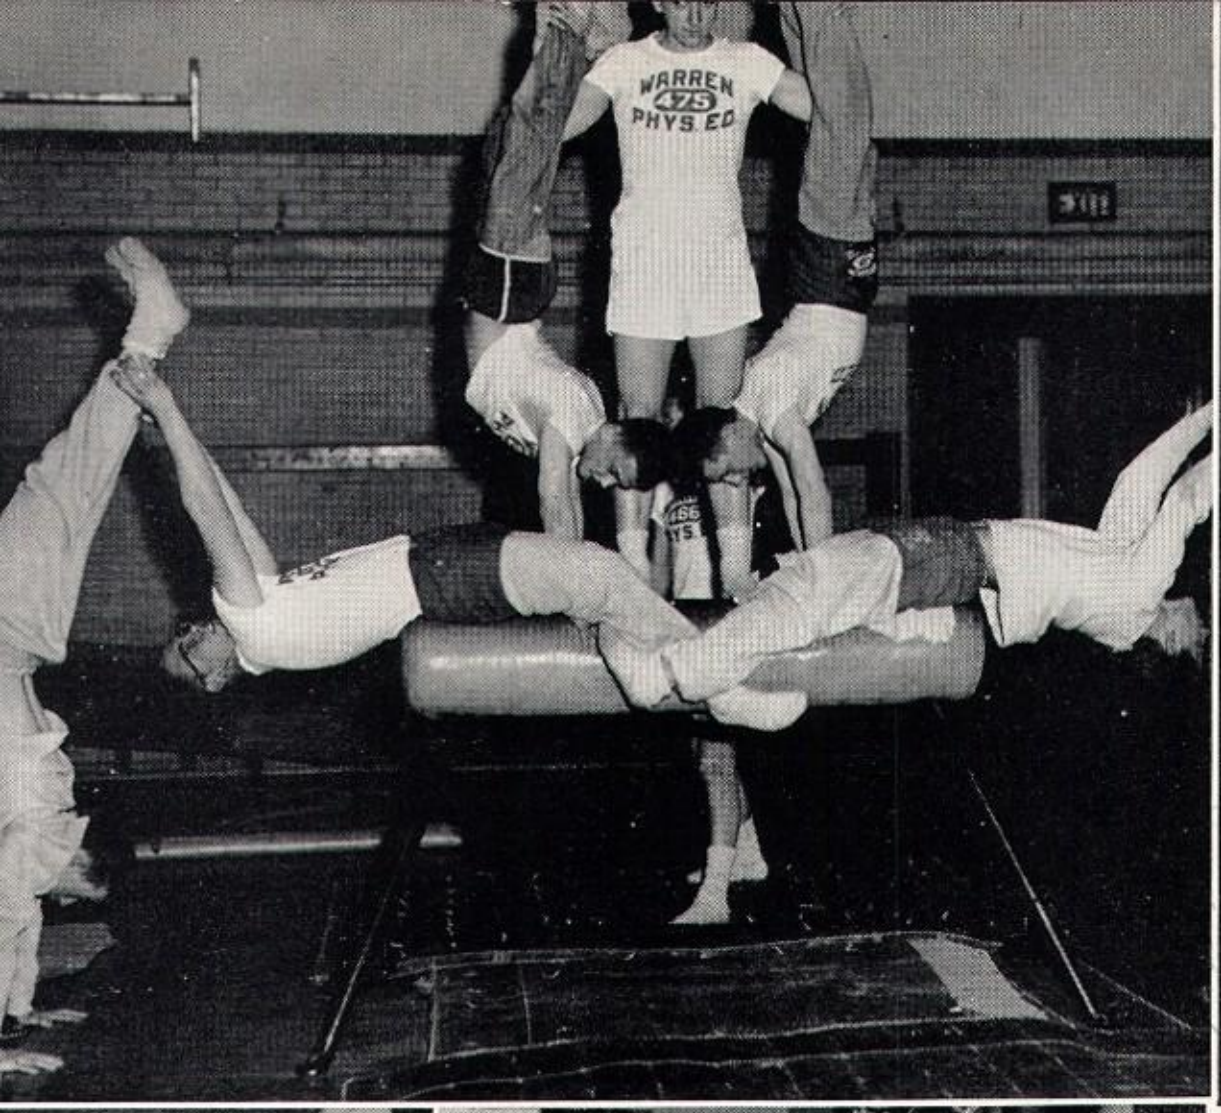
Providing an opportunity for participation in various activities, the Girls' Athletic Association stimulated interest in sports and promoted sportsmanship among the girls.

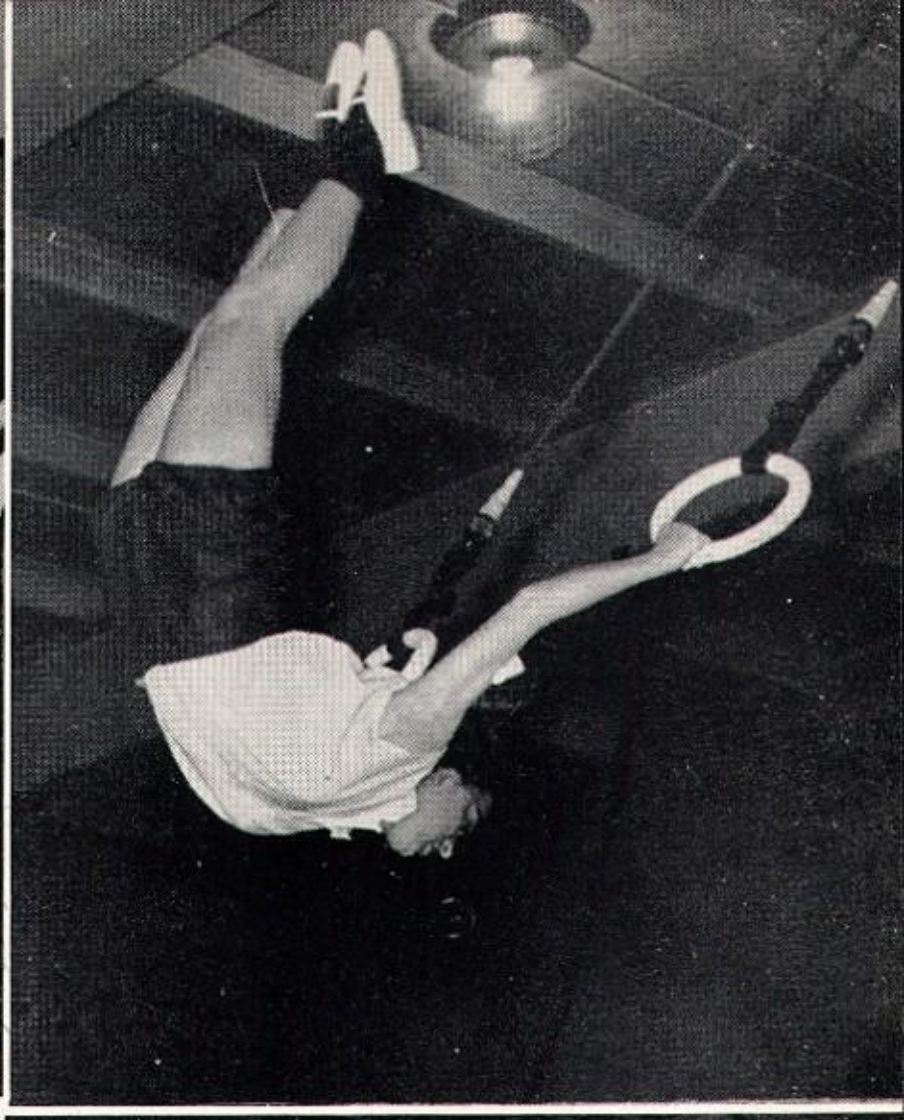
The busy intramural program included baseball, basketball, and volleyball. In addition to active participation in these games the girls learned the rules of scorekeeping, timekeeping, and refereeing.

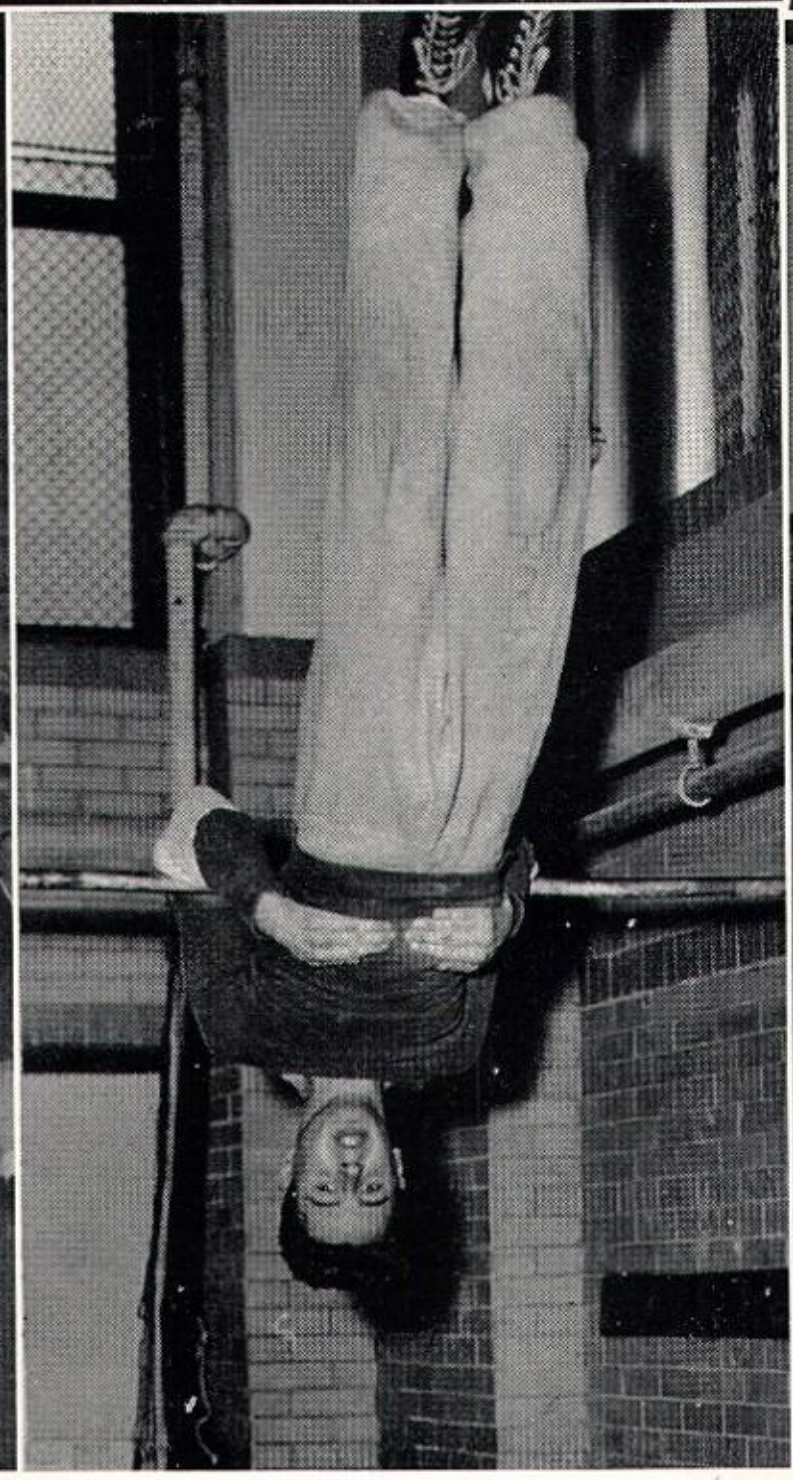
Earning a required number of points in a well-rounded sports program qualified a girl for membership in the Girls' Athletic Association.

Waiting for the ball to drop, these girls used a new rule concerning foul shots.

Girls from all the c'asses were able to participate in G. A. A. basketball.







Your Physical Fitness

Upper Left—Numerous pyramids displayed perfect timing.
Upper Right—On the rings Cecelia Smith exhibited exciting gymnastics.
Lower Left—Max Claypool and Max Seder combined in a thrilling hand balance.
Lower Center—In an inverted position Rocky Morrison balanced on the high bar.
Lower Right—Several boys demonstrated precision with shoulder balances on the parallel bars.

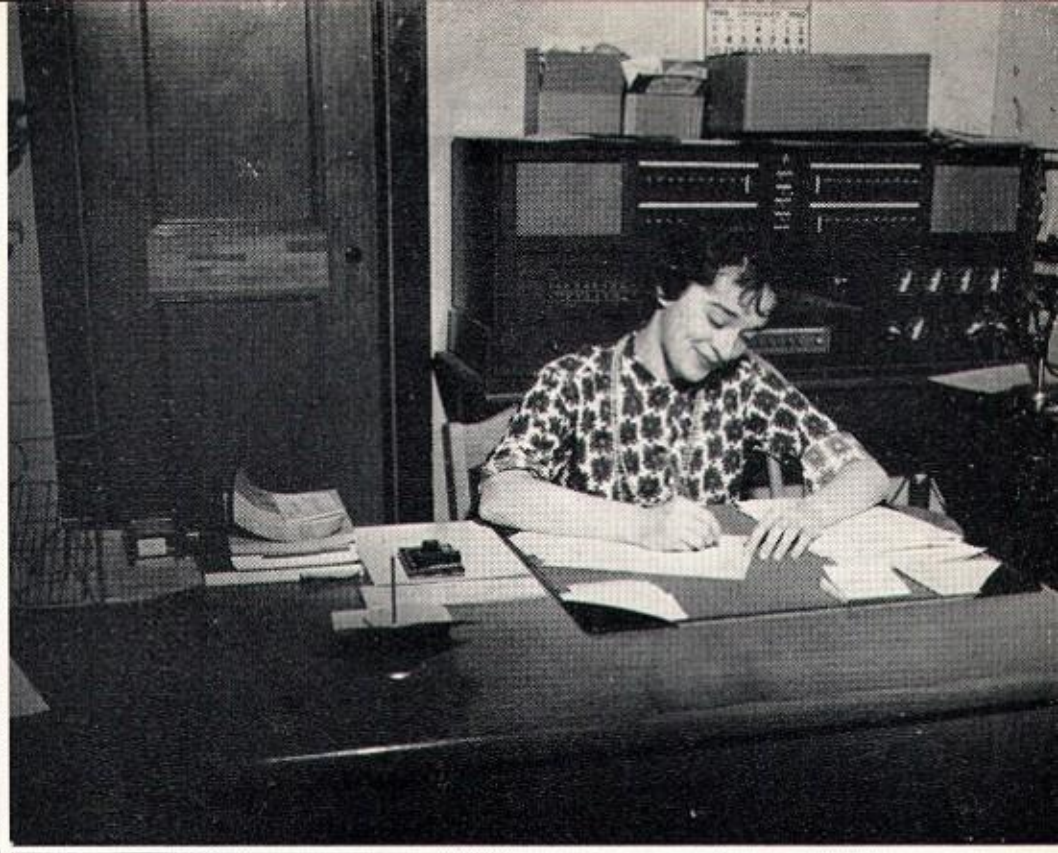
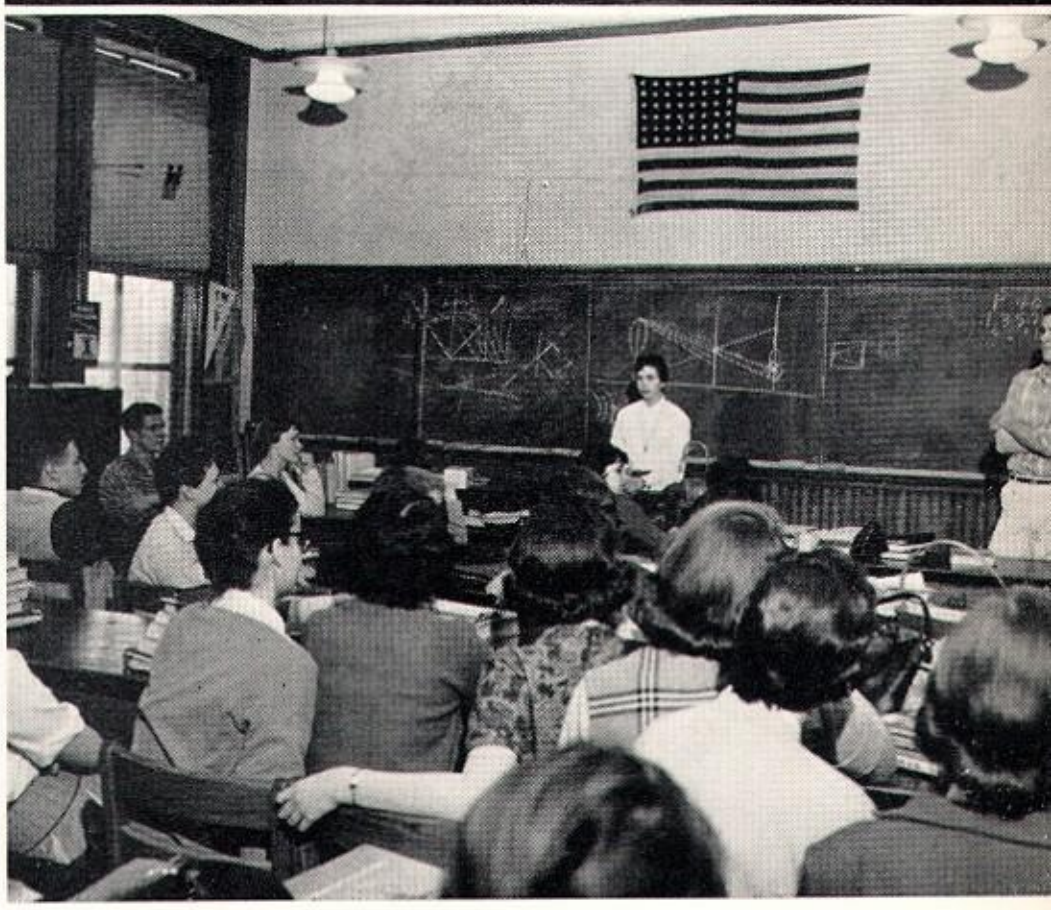
Acting as a bridge between the student body and the faculty, the Warren High School Student Council again proved to be a valuable asset to the school. Fifty-three members composed the group, including the homeroom chairmen, representatives-at-large and the class co-presidents.

Beginning the year's events, the annual Get-Acquainted Week enabled the sophomores to become familiar with their new surroundings and helped the juniors and the seniors to renew old acquaintances. A dance in the gym concluded the week's activities. During December the social committee planned and promoted the Snow Ball, which also was an enjoyable event for the student body. On February 18 the Council sponsored the annual Student Day, during which students taught all classes and managed the school's affairs for one day. This project proved very profitable for all students concerned.

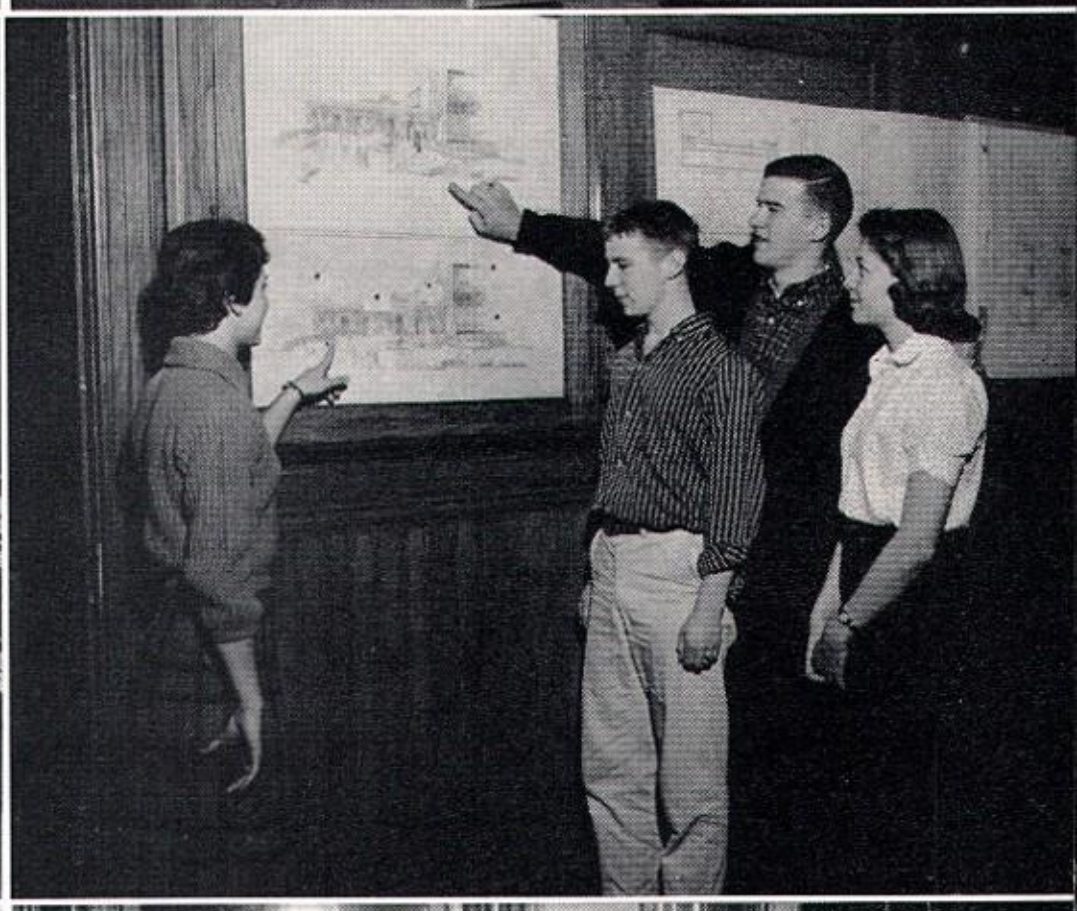
One of the main accomplishments of the Student Council this year was the donation of a date stone to be erected at the new high school. This stone represented the entire student body and signified the Student Councils of Warren High School, both past and present.

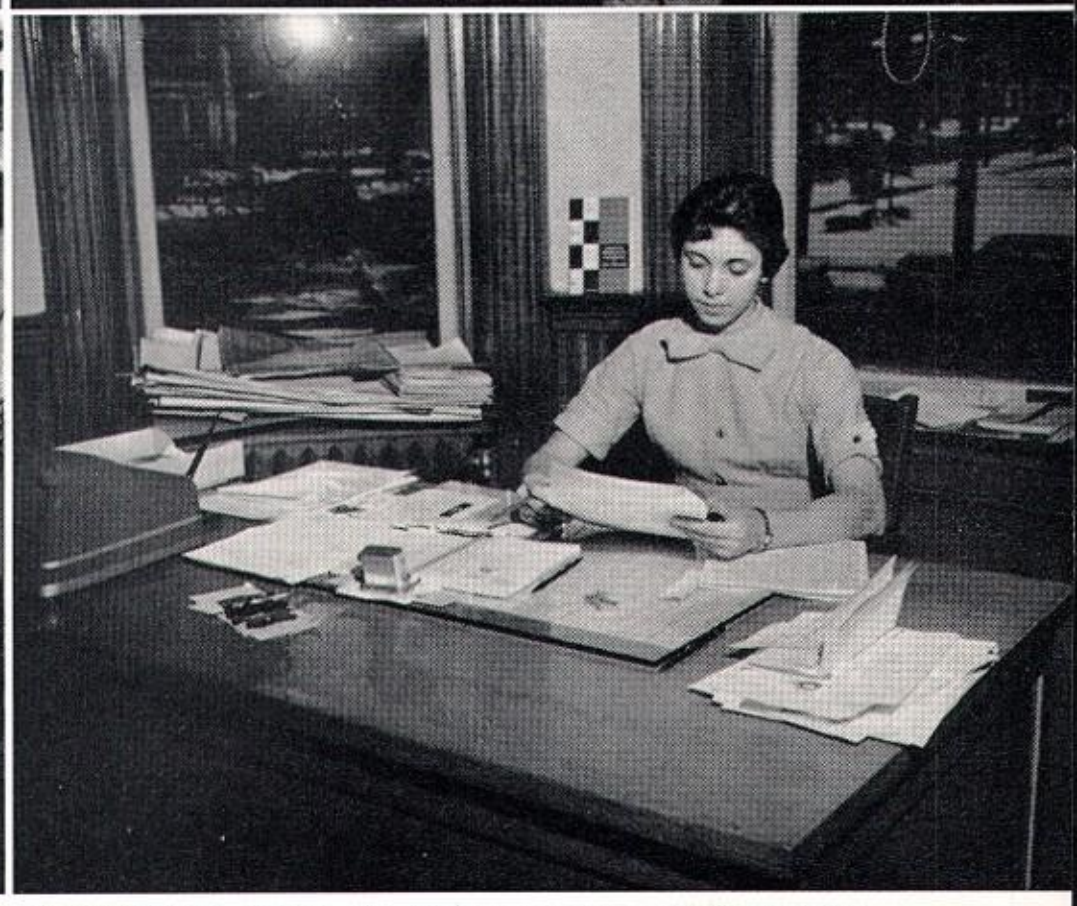
The group concluded another successful year with their annual spring picnic.





Upper Left—Seniors once again enjoyed participating in the annual Student Day activities.
Upper Right—Vice President of the Student Council, Cecelia Smith, assumed the role of assistant principal on Student Day.
Middle Left—The officers of the Student Council were Jean Massa, president; Cecelia Smith, vice president; Carol Papalia, secretary; and Jack Fallin, treasurer.
Middle Right—The Richard Arthur Quintet provided dreamy music for the Snow-Ball.
Lower Left—Jane Carter and Jane Lauffenburger, members of the Bulletin Board committee, kept the bulletin board up to date throughout the school year.
Lower Right—Discussions were a part of the monthly business meetings of Student Council.





Upper Left—During a council meeting, Jack Fallin, treasurer of the Student Council, led the discussion concerning the selection of the datestone for the new high school.
Upper Right—A surprise visitor appeared at the annual Student Council Snow-Ball.
Middle Left—Substituting for Miss Evan, Carol Papalia, council secretary, assumed the role of school secretary during Student Day.
Middle Right—To acquaint students with the proposed datestone, the council displayed sketches of the different stones and their locations at the new school.
Lower Left—"No trees in the high school" was the verdict of the fire inspectors, and so the ingenious decorating committee of the Student Council improvised this tree of green crepe paper.
Lower Right—Student Council president, Jean Massa, fulfilled the duties of Principal Passaro throughout Student Day.

All students enrolled in two or more business subjects were eligible to become members of the Future Business Leaders of America. The purpose of this organization was to develop competent business leaders.

Activities during the year included a bowling party, a skating party, and a swimming party. The club conducted banking for the student body once a week. Several members of the club attended the Northwestern Regional Chapter meeting to take part in skill tests in typing, shorthand, and spelling.

Practicing the habit of thrift, many students took advantage of F. B. L. A. banking hours.

Robert Berlin, vice president of the Northwestern District of F. T. A., explained the F. T. A. program to prospective members.

Future Teachers of America

Tomorrow's Educators.

The Future Teachers of America had a busy year. One of the most important projects of the club was cadet teaching, which enabled students to discover by experience the essential requirements of a competent teacher and to decide their choice of grade level.

The club enjoyed other professional projects including visitation to learn classroom technique, participation in round-table discussion, and radio broadcasting.

Members took part in the county, district, and state F. T. A. conventions. Robert Berlin was elected vice president of the Northwestern District of Pennsylvania at the District Convention in Erie.

Officers for the year were president, Mary Ellen Wendelboe; vice president, James Nordine; secretary, Kathleen Whiteshot; and treasurer, Donald De Luca.

STENOGRAPHERS' CLUB

Future Secretaries.

The Stenographers' Club represented the senior girls enrolled in second year shorthand and transcription classes. The aim of the club was to give its members an insight into the skills and accomplishments of the successful office secretary.

Several prominent businessmen and women spoke to the group during regular class periods. Social meetings were held at the girls' homes and included a pizza party.

As a club project the club members collected and wrapped gifts of clothing, cosmetics, jewelry, and accessories to make a complete Christmas for twenty women patients at the State Hospital. They also distributed over one hundred other individually wrapped gifts. Several girls donated their services during the Christmas vacation and sorted mail at the Hospital.

To pay club expenses and to provide at Commencement an award for the outstanding club member, the group sold candy. Thus ended a very busy and interesting year.

In its second year as an independent organization the Pep Club was a very active club. The members worked diligently to plan pep rallies and to form card sections at the home games. They also sold Horace-the-Scholar stuffed dolls to raise money for their activities. The main purpose of this club was to boost the morale of the school and the morale of the Dragon teams.

DRAMATIC CLUB

All the World's a Stage.

Co-Presidents....Robert August, Rosemarie Dangelo
Treasurer ..... William Lombard
Secretary ..... Mary Pat Gibson
Advisor ..... Mr. Andersen

In two separate groups about sixty members of the Dramatic Club met to improve their knowledge of the stage and to receive dramatic experience and training.

The annual Evening of Plays, which the club considered the outstanding dramatic event of the year, highlighted the other projects of the club. In monthly meetings the members participated in varied programs with the presentation of a one-act play, a lecture, and a demonstration.

John,
Lots of luck to a fellow algebra flunker. Remember all the fun we had this year (at the Rocha) Have fun this summer and I'll see you next year (if I pass algebra).
Jack Butler

In "The Little Flaw of Ernesto Lippi," a production of the Evening of Plays, the Lippi brothers proposed a toast to marital problems while Antonio brooded. Rosanna Oberg was the student coach for this play.

Four spies confronted each other in "Spy Me This One," coached by Rosemarie Dangelo for the Evening of Plays program.

In "A Fabulous Tale," a third play in the Evening of Plays, the beggar, Gregg Nasky, implored a handout from a passerby. The student coach was Donna Jones.

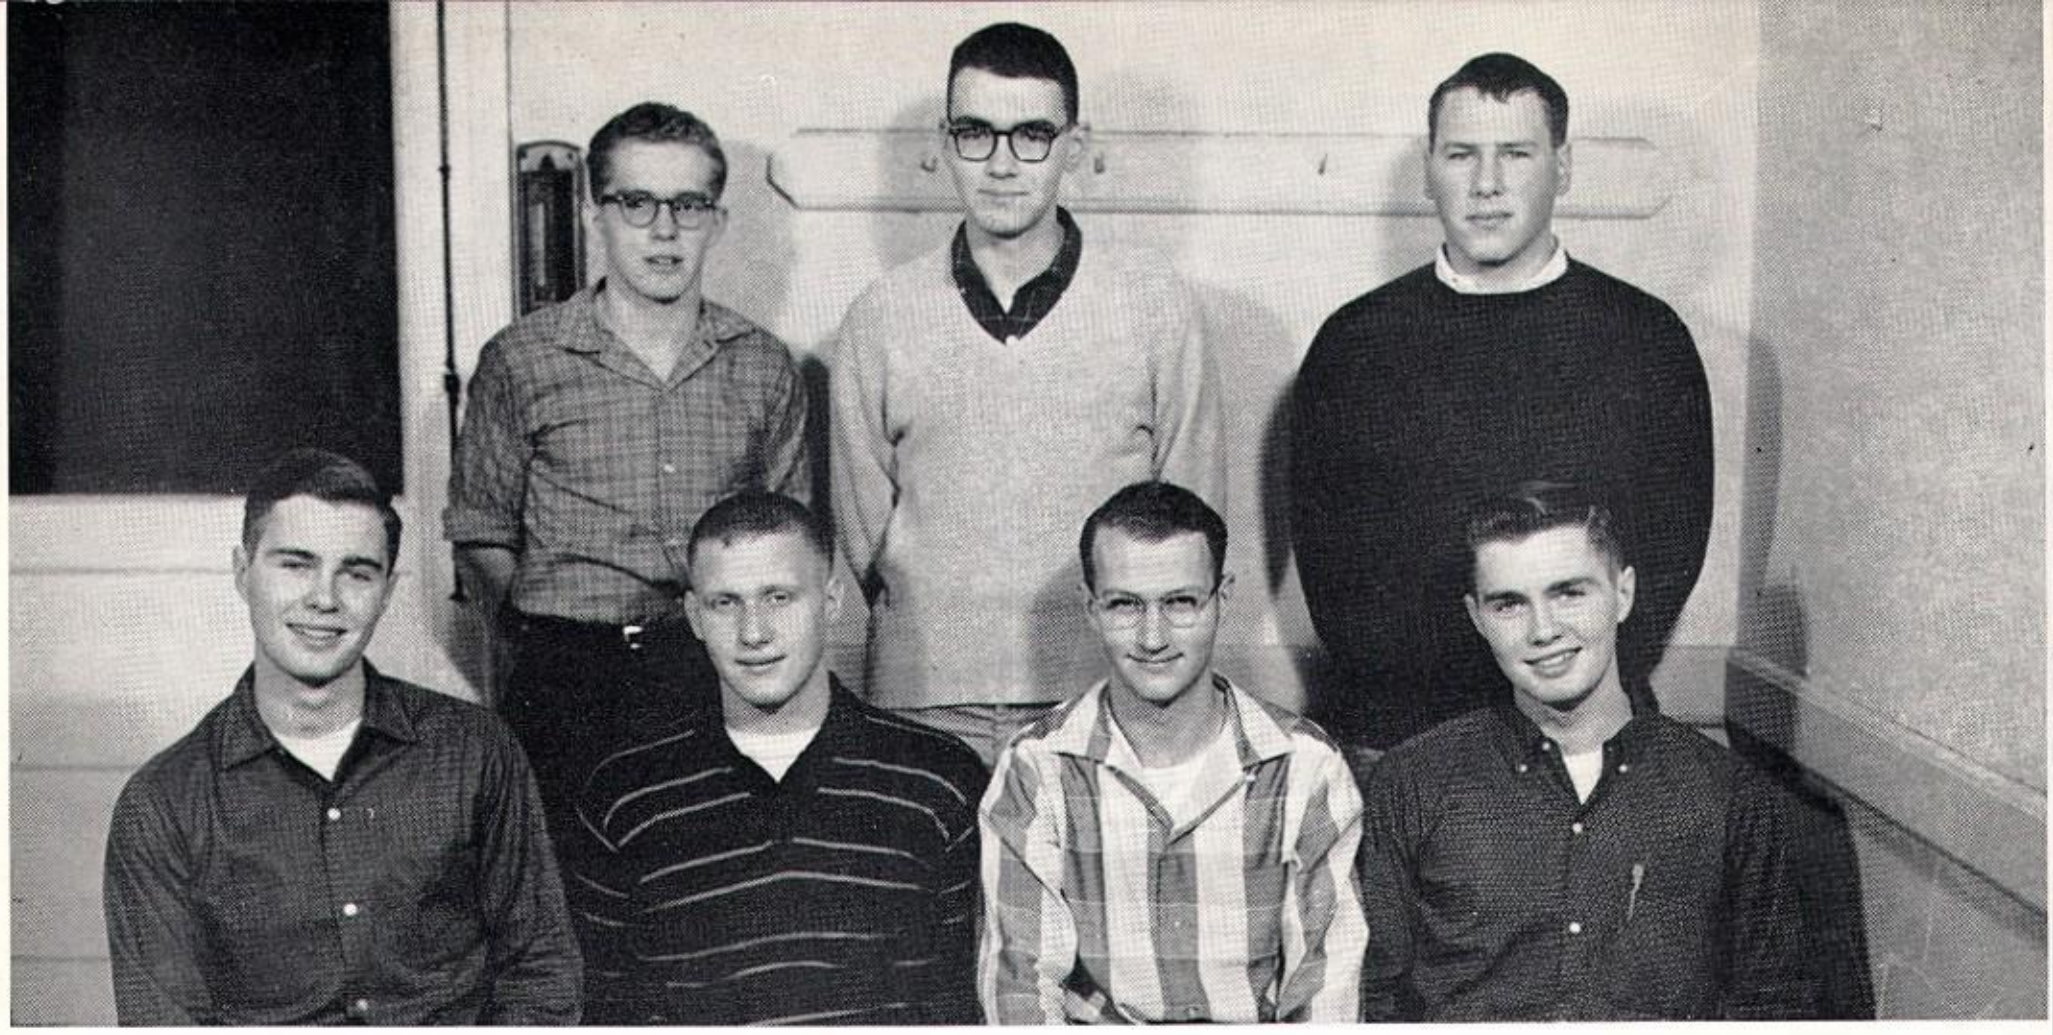
Sponsored by the Young Women's Christian Association, the Y-Teens met the first and third Monday of each month in the Y. W. C. A. Activities Building. The purpose of this club was to build a fellowship of girls devoted to the task of realizing in their common life those ideals of personal and social living to which they committed themselves by their faith as Christians.

Some of their projects this year were an Underprivileged Children's Party, World Fellowship Supper and Program, and the Easter Chapel Services. Among their accomplishments were the Hanging of the Greens, The Belle Ball, Saturday morning radio programs, Christmas Candlelight Service, the basketball dances and the Turn-About Dance.

Upper Left—During the intermission at the Belle Ball, the couples enjoyed refreshments and conversation with their friends.
Upper Right—Mary Stein, president of the Y-Teens, demonstrated the making of favors for Valentine's Day at a Y-Teen meeting.
Middle Left—The king and queen of the traditional Y-Teen Belle Ball were James Olson and Barbara Yaegle.
Middle Right—With the help of Mrs. Sage, the new Y-Teen director, the girls enthusiastically worked together to provide favors for children at the hospital and the Children's Home.
Lower Left—Many people attended the annual Belle Ball, which highlighted the Christmas season at the Y. W. C. A. for the high school Y-Teens.
Lower Right—Making service projects for the community was one of the activities of the Y-Teens.



Sitting—Richard Elmhurst, Edsel Ristau, Christopher Creal, William Elmhurst.
Standing—Craig Palmer, Steven Cullinane, Douglas Arnold.

Hi-Y

Aiming for High Standards.

The Hi-Y Club represented the national organization, which had its origin in this country about the turn of the century and became a world-wide movement. The local chapter held regular meetings at the Y. M. C. A. building.

This group of young men had as an aim the attainment of certain qualities including dependability, loyalty to the church and the school, co-operation, and initiative. The purpose for which the Hi-Y was founded best summed up these prized atributes: to create, maintain, and extend through the home, the school, and the community high standards of Christian character.

Efficient program planning resulted in a successful year for the Hi-Y.

The gay decorations in the German room lent a friendly atmosphere to the class.

Beginning the new year's activities with a Kaffee Kuchen Klatsch, the second year German students entertained new members with refreshments and humorous German skits. The members enjoyed singing German songs at all their gatherings, especially at the annual "Weihnachts Fest" where the singing of "O Tannenbaum" and "Stille Nacht" rang through the dining hall. Special feature of the evening was the appearance of a traditional German band composed of five members. The club concluded another successful year with the annual spring picnic, an enjoyable event for all.

Spanish Club

President ..... Richard Bevevino

Vice President ..... Fred Martin

Secretary ..... Carolyn Larson

Treasurer ..... Terry Andersen

Students taking first-year and second-year Spanish met regularly the second Tuesday of every month after school and the fourth Friday during class as "Los Amigos." In an effort to create friendlier relations with our Spanish-speaking neighbors the club members became acquainted with many of the Spanish customs and skills as well as Spanish literature. As a result Spanish Club members learned to appreciate their study of the Spanish language.

The highlights of the year's activities were a spring picnic and the Christmas dinner. Entertainment, participation in the breaking of the "pinata," and dancing followed the barbecued chicken dinner in Beaty Cafeteria prior to Christmas vacation.

"This is your Dragonette reporter, Cloie Weiler."

DRAGONETTE

Headlines and Deadlines.

Composing the school newspaper was the most important function of the "Dragonette" Staff. During the year each student worked in the different departments and thus acquired varied experience in the field of journalism.

Between publications the class studied news techniques for the improvement of the "Dragonette."

Another important responsibility of the class was the morning announcements to the student body over the public address system. The staff also supplied the "Times Mirror," the "Observer," and WNAE with daily news pertaining to school life.

Mr. Papalia, advisor, and his staff had the task of preparing, editing, and overseeing the publication of the "Dragonette." Complete coverage of all school activities and programs was its outstanding contribution to Warren High School.

DRAGON BUSINESS BOARD

Financing the Dragon.

Keeping accurate accounts of solicitations and high school patronage occupied the attention of the Dragon Business Board.

The Dragon Business Board competently managed the finances for the publication of the Dragon. It was their responsibility to conduct the sale of the yearbook in home rooms and to collect the subscription payments. Another vital task was the soliciting of donations from local and county business men and other patrons. Board members also sold blue and white pom-pons and Warren High School stationery bearing an engraved dragon emblem.

The business board deserved great credit for the accomplishment of their often tedious but essential tasks.

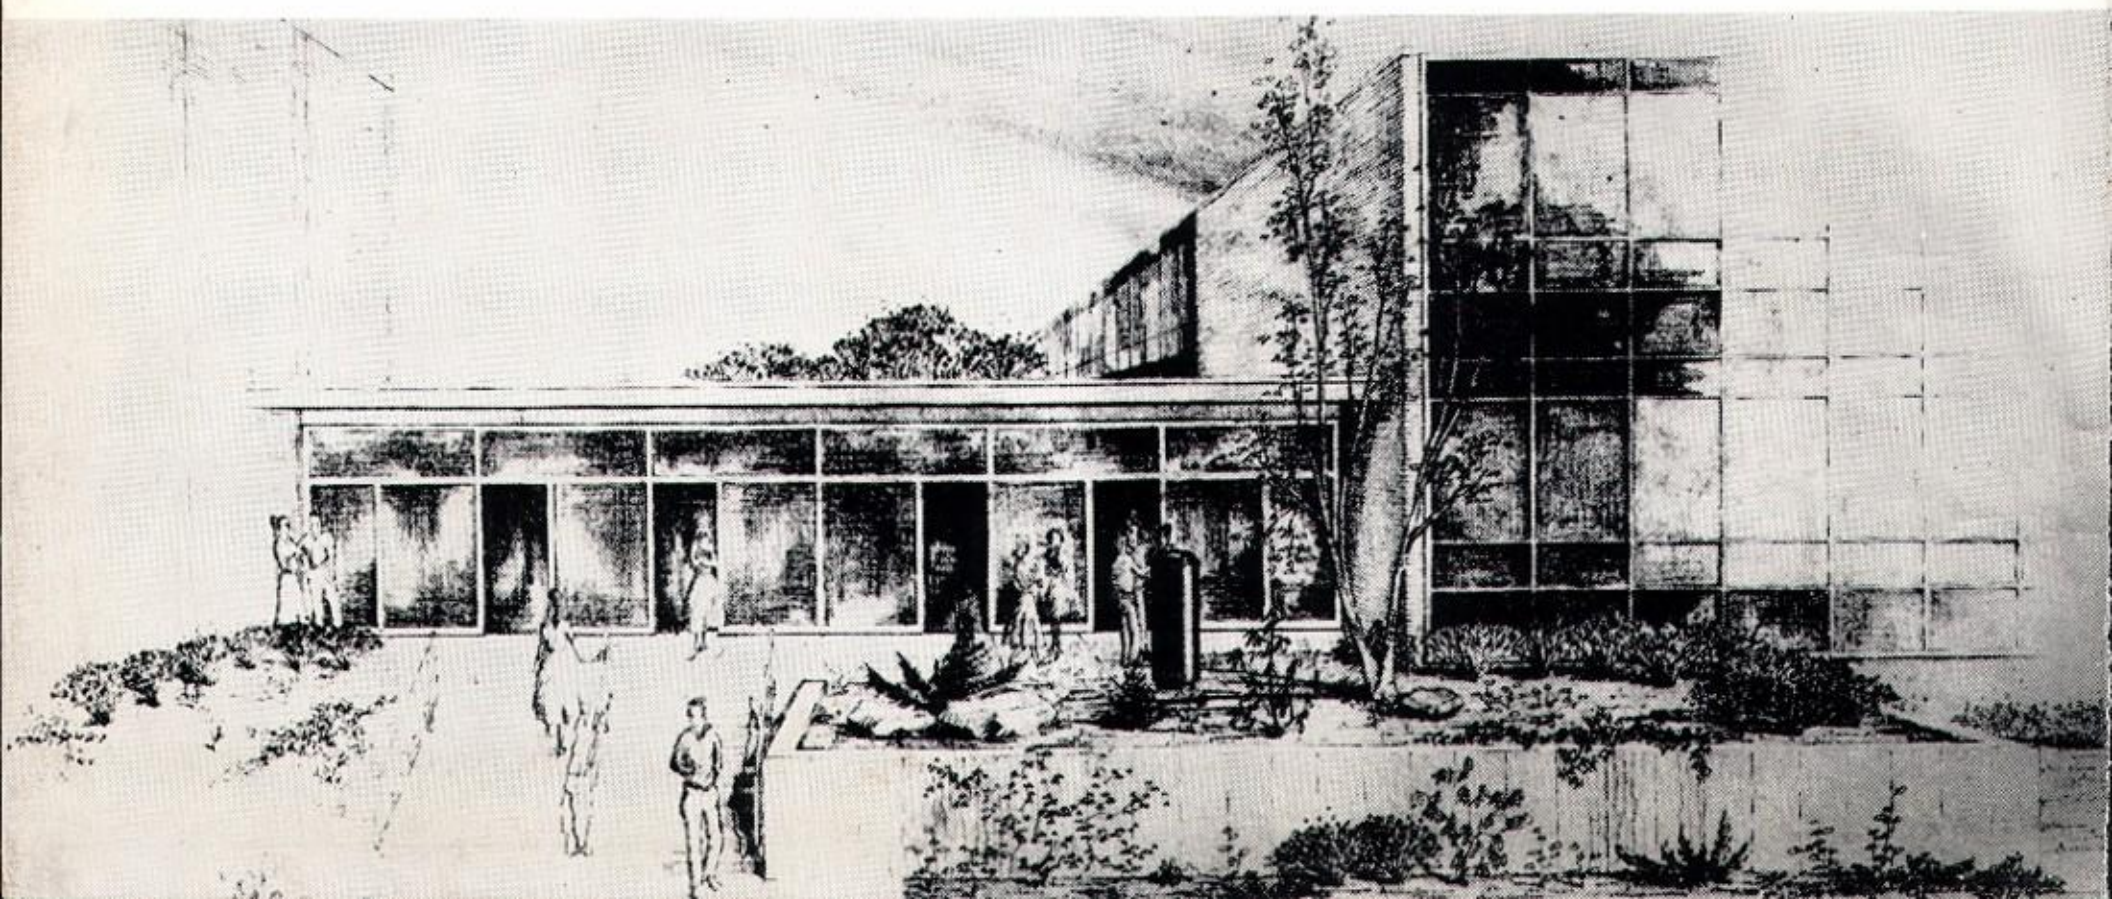
Acknowledgments

The 1960 "Dragon" has become a reality only by the sincere co-operation and kindnesses afforded by many people. The "Dragon" Board of Editors express their appreciation to these individuals who have made this publication possible. We extend our thanks to Miss Hurd, our literary advisor, to Mr. Passaro, our principal, and to Mr. Danielson, our business advisor, who have given generously of their time. We are grateful to Mr. Berdine of the Keystone Printing Company, Mr. Zimmerman of the Zimmerman Engraving Company, and Mr. Ridgway of Kurtz Bros. for their thoughtful advice and co-operation. We acknowledge the generous aid of Mr. Stokes and Mr. Kofod, our amicable photographers; the "Warren Times Mirror;" the "Warren Observer;" and Mr. Fowler and the riser committee. The teachers and the students have also contributed greatly to this publication by their assistance and financial support, for which we are sincerely appreciative.

DRAGON BOARD OF EDITORS.



Johnny, to an old pro, a chip off the ole block, and my everlasting menace. Boy, if you do good you will be a complete success. At times, words can't describe you. And at times — Sure have enjoyed having a little sophomore around. I think next year will be our greatest. Mary, you, and I will have a nice time in Cleveland, even though we'll be hitching home. I like you, I really do, even though I seem cruel at times. Don't, don't change, you're a swell kid. Have a nice summer, maybe I'll pick you up & go swimming sometimes this summer. Be good & best wishes.

Bob Vetera

Dear Jhon,

If you don't will not be original and wish all the luckes in the world but instead say I hope you don't (Ha Ha). Thanks you for all your nice complements. I really was flattered. Hope you enjoyed the recital, I didn't (except for Nancy). I can't keep you in stiches because I don't have anything funny to write and I'm not very good at telling sob stories. I don't forget last night you really should have gone, we had a ball. never forget 4th grade. and always smile. Take care of Nancy she's a precious bundle. Hope I'll see you this summer and of course I'll see you next year. I'll keep my beautiful (?!) legs just where they are for you.

Your friend,

Sue
